SUSAN HAYWARD

Won Academy Award for 'I Want to Live'

Actress Susan Hayward dies at 55

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Hayward, the red-haired actress who won an Academy Award for her role in "I Want To Live," died Friday of a seizure brought on by a brain tumor. She was 55.

The tumor was discovered more than two years ago. Miss Hayward's physician, Dr. Lee E. Siegel, marveled that she had lived with it so long.

"There was no other case like it, nothing in the medical literature," Siegel said. "It was amazing to live that long with this type of lesion. She was one of the great fighters. I've never seen anything like it."

Siegel said Miss Hayward had suffered many seizures, but the one she suffered Friday at her home in Beverly Hills "was massive, which was fortunate because she was in a terminal state. It allowed her to go peacefully."

Miss Hayward won her Academy Award in 1958 for "I Want To Live." She played Barbara Graham, a convicted murderess who died in the gas chamber at San Quentin in 1955.

Although confined to a wheel chair, Miss Hayward attended the Academy Awards ceremony last April.

Born Edythe Marrener June 20, 1919, in Brooklyn, Miss Hayward liked to blame her "Irish" for her contrariness and her superstitious nature. One writer described her as "a miniature dynamo with the voltage output of a powerhouse."

After winning the Oscar in 1958 for her role as murderess Barbara Graham, Miss Hayward told an interviewer, "I'm a sucker for anyone who comes offering honey instead of vinegar.

"But if someone comes along with a chip on their shoulder I'm agin' 'em pronto. Life's too short to waste on phonies. The psychologists have been saying for years, 'Get it off your chest." The redhead does it in a hurry."

After winning her Oscar, a producer told a reporter, "Thank heavens, now she can relax. Susie got what she's been chasing for 20 years."

She began her career as New York model and was featured on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post in 1939. The late David O. Selznick saw the magazine and invited her to the West Coast for a screen test.

Miss Hayward became a contender for the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." The part went to Vivien Leigh, but Miss Hayward went on to become a major star.

She married actor Jess Barker in 1944 and a year later they had twin sons, Timothy and Gregory. Miss Hayward divorced Barker in 1953.

Survivors include Miss Hayward's two sons, a grandson and a granddaughter.

Miss Hayward will be buried Monday at Carrollton, Ga., where she lived in the late 1950s and 1960s.

Former 'law and order' governor convicted on extortion, bribe count

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Former Oklahoma Gov. David Hall, an ex-prosecutor who was elected on a law-and-order platform in 1970, was convicted Friday on four counts of extortion and conspiracy to bribe a public official.

The federal court jury also convicted Dallas financier W.W. "Doc" Taylor on three counts of attempted bribery.

After a three-week trial, the jury of five men and seven women deliberated almost 16 hours over a three-day period before finding Hall and Taylor guilty on all charges.

Hall and Taylor were convicted on three counts each of conspiring to bribe Secretary of State John Rogers to use his influence as chairman of the board administering the state retirement fund to swing a $10-million investment to a Dallas firm Taylor owns.

Hall also was convicted on one count of extortion for demanding $50,000 from Taylor for Hall's influence as governor on the board.

Hall faces a maximum sentence of 35 years in prison and $40,000 in fines. The maximum sentence for Taylor is 15 years in prison and $30,000 in fines.

Hall, a 45-year-old Democrat who has been the target of federal grand jury investigations since shortly after he took office, was still smiling and predicting an eventual victory Friday evening.

"I've directed my attorney to file a motion for a new trial and to appeal the verdict in this case," he said.

"I'm not guilty and I'm surprised the verdict was guilty. I'm very surprised," he said.

Hall contended during the trial that he was framed.

U.S. Atty. William R. Burkett, a former Republican state chairman, who spearheaded the frequent grand jury investigations of the Hall administration, said he was pleased with the verdict, but "this is not something you can rejoice over."

Escapes moments before gunfire

Mexico's Echeverria stoned, chased in riot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thousands of students shouted down President Luis Echeverria at Mexico's national university Friday and sent him fleeing from the campus before a hail of bottles, bricks and rocks.

Bodyguards held their hands over Echeverria's head as a howling mob pursued him to his car. A rock smashed the windshield when the limousine sped away with one door still open. Gunfire and rioting broke out minutes later.

The office of the president — whom activists blame for the bloody suppression of a 1968 student rally — said Friday night that Echeverria suffered a slight cut on the head. Government spokesmen said earlier he was not injured.

Four persons were hurt in the eruption after he left — one with a gunshot wound in the leg, according to a university infirmary doctor. Echeverria had instructed his body guards and secret service men to accompany him unarmed and they were not seen to use weapons.

The president is a focus of student anger because he was interior minister, in charge of security, when Mexican army troops opened fire on a student rally Oct. 2, 1968, at the Tlatelolco housing complex in downtown Mexico City. At least 50 persons were killed and scores were wounded.

Leftist student organizations spent several days organizing the protest against Echeverria's appearance to open new courses at the medical school — the first campus-visit by a Mexican president since that October day seven years ago.

Slogans with such phrases as "Don't come, assassin," were painted on university walls.

Echeverria tried in vain for an hour and a half Friday to give his speech, at one point calling his hecklers "young fascists" employing the tactics of Mussolini and Hitler. Finally he gave up and left by a side door.

The shooting occurred 10 minutes after his departure, but calm was reported restored soon afterward. Students then took over the 15-story building that houses the rector's office and only students were allowed in and out.

The crowd that pursued the presidential party outside the hall was estimated at 7,000 to 10,000.

Students picked up huge flowerpots, smashed them on the ground and threw the pieces through the auditorium's 15-foot-high plate glass windows.

This started the barrage of rocks, bricks and bottles.

Half a dozen persons in Echeverria's party were seen falling to their knees as they were hit by flying objects.

Government controls credit

Portugal's revolutionary step: takeover of private banking

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — As hundreds of chanting clerks and the Communist party expressed approval, Portugal's leftist military government nationalized private banks on Friday, a measure without equal in Western Europe.

Premier Vasco Goncalves declared the government takeover of the banks "the first, firm irreversible step" of his regime's "anti-monopolistic policy."

Former Portuguese President Antonio de Spinola took off from Spain, presumably bound for exile in Brazil. Portuguese radio broadcasters started referring to him as "traitor Spinola" on grounds he instigated a right-wing uprising that was quickly crushed Tuesday.

Goncalves said in a televison interview that the bank seizure did not mean "the nationalization of the Portuguese economy." He said private enterprise would still have a role to play in Portugal's future.

He said the bank nationalization would give the government control of credit policy "for the benefit of the Portuguese people" and added that deposits would be guaranteed.

As the premier spoke on television, President Francisco da Costa Gomes addressed a rainsoaked crowd of about 5,000 that gathered outside Belem National Palace to show its support for the move.

"The nationalization of the banks is the most revolutionary law ever passed in this country, Costa Gomes said from a parapet at the edge of the palace gardens."

Rebels in Ethiopia kill official, kidnap three, burn plane

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — A band of more than 100 royalist guerrillas killed an Ethiopian airlines security officer, took three crewmen hostage and burned a DC3 aircraft Friday at the tourist village of Lalibella.

Airline officials said the rebels, led by former provincial governor Berhane Meskel Desta, failed to hijack the plane because the security officer flattened the tires.

Berhane took to the mountains around remote Lalibella after two relatives were executed by the military government along with 58 other former officials last November. His followers later dug trenches across Lalibella's airstrip, the only transport facility for the settlement famed for its 11th century rock-hewn churches.

Paratroopers flew to Lalibella Friday to pursue Berhane in the hills.

Need for leasing of offshore oil, gas rights told by Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton appealed to Congress on Friday not to retard administration plans to step up the leasing of offshore oil and gas rights.

Morton told a joint session of the Senate Interior and Commerce Committees that delays caused by enactment of several pieces of pending legislation would jeopardize the administration's energy self-sufficiency plan.

One of the bills before the committees would allow coastal governors to hold up leasing for as long as three years. Another would require the federal government to conduct its own exploration program before selling drilling rights to the oil companies.

Search shifts to new areas

Fresh Hearst leads roll in for FBI

By The Associated Press

The FBI said Friday it has shifted its search for Patricia Hearst into new areas amid a coast-to-coast flurry of fresh leads that have brought two unorthodox athletic figures into the year-old case.

One prominent name involved is pro basketball star Bill Walton, who has been questioned by the FBI. The other is Jack Scott, a former college athletic director who was a leader in the activist sports movement.

Sources have said Scott and his wife, Micki, are under investigation by a federal grand jury.

Both Walton's and Scott's fathers have been questioned by federal authorities.

In San Francisco, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said the federal grand jury that has been investigating the Hearst case would hear testimony next Thursday.

And Thomas Druken, assistant agent in charge of the San Francisco FBI office, said Friday: "We have gone into new areas of inquiry."

He said the massive publicity arising from the burst of developments had hindered FBI efforts to find Miss Hearst, daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner. But he declined to elaborate.

Meanwhile, the FBI launched a search for Wendy Masako Yoshimura, a feminist artist linked in news reports to Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris, two fugitive survivors of the Symbionese Liberation Army. Miss Hearst was kidnaped by the terrorists on Feb. 4, 1974 and later said she joined the SLA.

Timothy J. O'Sullivan, a New York City fireman who owns a frame house in South Canaan, Pa. that authorities suspect may have been used as a hideout, said Friday that a woman named Micki Scott told him she wanted to rent the house with some other writers because they needed privacy. He said the FBI had interviewed him.

Published reports have said the fingerprints of Miss Hearst, the Harrises and those of Miss Yoshimura had been found in a Pennsylvania farmhouse.

A federal warrant was issued Friday in Oakland, Calif., for Miss Yoshimura for alleged flight to avoid prosecution on state charges first filed in 1972 for possession of weapons and explosives.

The Washington source said one of the focuses of the current investigation was Las Vegas where Jack Scott's father, John J. Scott, manages an apartment building.

John Scott testified before the federal grand jury in San Francisco on March 6, the elder Scott's attorney said.

Fireworks cause valley home fire

Fire caused approximately $6,000 damage to the roof and attic of a La Verne home Friday afternoon.

Officials said that the fire apparently was caused by illegal fireworks being shot in the air and landing on the roof of the home at 1756 Second St.

The occupants of the home, Tony Viramontez and his family, fled the structure unharmed.

Two units of the La Verne Fire Department were able to extinguish the blaze in about 10 minutes.

U.S. Board rejects Rock Island bid

$100 million railroad loan refused

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Railway Association's board of directors rejected a renewed bid Friday night by the Rock Island railroad for a $100 million loan.

The Rock Island had contended it needs the massive loan to avoid a cash shortage next week that could shut down the line or force it into reorganization.

"The board of directors reviewed additional financial information submitted by the railroad in support of a $100 million loan application and found no basis for revising its previous denial of the loan," the railway association said in a statement.

USRA convened the special meeting after Interstate Commerce Commission Chairman George Stafford, a member of the board, urged the association to reconsider its earlier rejection.

Stafford said the loan would be far less expensive to the federal Treasury than if the ICC were forced — as the Department of Transportation advocates — to require that other railroads take over Rock Island service, using Rock Island track, equipment and manpower.

Nevertheless, Stafford said the ICC was prepared to order up to 15 railroads to take over the Rock Island operations if that railroad is unable to avoid the cash problems it says will occur next week.

The USRA statement said: "The association found that it is not reasonable to conclude that a loan of $100 million would prevent insolvency of the Rock Island."

The association repeated its previous conclusion that it believed the Rock Island would be unable to adequately secure or repay an USRA loan big enough to keep the line operating.

Also at Friday night's meeting, the USRA directors approver a $19 million loan to the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad for roadbed, track and equipment rehabilitation, to be granted under a section of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973.

Most dismissed school workers ask hearings

More than half the 124 certificated Pomona school employes who were notified they would not be rehired next year have filed for hearings.

Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) executive director Del Pfeifer said that by Monday probably all 124 will have filed.

Notices of dismissal were sent out by Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz following school board action on Feb. 11 eliminating programs and services to balance next year's budget.

Employes were informed they had until March 21 to file for hearings and notice was to be given in writing to Wentz.

Pfeifer said it will be the responsibility of the district to arrange a time and a place for the hearings to be conducted by a state hearing officer.

The hearing officer will make judgments which may be referred back to the school board for final action on May 15.

During hearings, reasons for dismissals are analyzed. Forms requesting hearings were provided employes by the APT. Pfeifer said APT was servicing members and non-members who had received termination notice.

One teacher given notice, Darrell Lee Ruppel, a Garey High reading specialist, said he had difficulty delivering his notice to Wentz' office before noon Friday.

Wentz was in Sacramento and his office staff apparently had to contact hin by telephone for authorization to officially accept the notifications.

Pfeifer pointed out that the cutting was done by seniority. "Nearly every first-and second-year probationary teacher in the district received notice," he said.

Output of nation's industry dips for 5th straight month

By The Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board on Friday announced a drop in industrial output for the fifth straight month, while administration officials pointed to a drop in business inventories as a sign recession was easing.

The Federal Reserve said industrial output in February dropped 3 per cent from January. The board said it was down 12.2 per cent from September, showing the effects of the recession on industry.

The Federal Reserve Board said the cutbacks in February were widespread through the economy, including consumer goods, autos, equipment, construction products and industrial materials.

February auto assemblies were at an annual rate of 4.6 million units, down 4 per cent from January and 30 per cent below a year earlier. But the board auto production was expected to increase in March.

The 3 per cent decline in industrial production in February compared with a 3.6 per cent drop in January, which had been the biggest monthly decline since December of 1937, when it was 8.9 per cent. The figures were adjusted to account for seasonal fluctuations.

On the positive side in the fight against recession, the Commerce Department said business inventories declined in January for the first time in 4½ years. Economists note that inventories must be whittled down before industry increases production again and they were encouraged by the latest report.

"I don't see how it could be interpreted as anything but good news," said one department analyst, and White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen added that the decline and a recent rise in retail sales show that "the bottoming out (of the recession) is on schedule."

UC pay too high: Brown

BERKELEY (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Friday that top University of California officials make too much money.

He was disputed by UC President Charles Hitch and regents chairman William French Smith, who said state employes in comparable positions are underpaid.

Brown, whose digs at the UC establishment have become a regular feature of the monthly regents meetings, also prodded the board about a long-delayed report on Mexican-Americans in the university.

Spurred by Brown and by a telegram from the legislature's Chicano caucus, Hitch promised to have the report ready by the May meeting.

Speaking after the regular meeting agenda was concluded, Brown said he was troubled that university officials make more than their counterparts in state government.

"I think you should not set yourself so apart from the salary level of other state institutions," said the Democratic governor. "Those at the top should set an example."

Police quell disturbance on SC campus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police quelled a fraternity row disturbance at the University of Southern California early Friday involving some 2,000 students.

Police arrested 21 persons, including one girl and two male students, for investigation of battery on a police officer.

The incident began shortly before midnight Thursday when two police officers stopped to investigate an automobile parked in the middle of a fraternity row street. About 100 students had surrounded the car.

The driver of the car refused an order to move the vehicle and the officers started to take him into custody. Police said one student tossed a beer can at one officer and another student began swinging at the second.

Police said other students in the crowd joined in the melee, which attracted about 2,000 onlookers from surrounding fraternity and sorority houses.

The houses customarily schedule a "social night" on Thursdays which attracts large crowds.

The officers radioed for assistance and about 35 police from the Southwest Division of the Los Angeles Police Department were sent to disperse the crowd. A helicopter hovered overhead because police said youths began hurling rocks and beer bottles from rooftops at the officers.

Only minor injuries were reported and there was no reported property damage.

Police team up, nab burglary suspects

A California highway patrolman teamed up with Chino police officers Friday to aid in the capture of a man and woman suspected of burglarizing a home at 12512 Monte Vista Ave. in Chino.

Homer Tedford, 31, of 8784 LaVine St., Alta Loma, and his ex-wife Rita Tedford of North Hollywood, were booked into Chino Jail on suspicion of burglary.

Chino Police Officer David Porter said he was patrolling in the area of Monte Vista Avenue about 4:45 a.m. when he observed a man and a woman leaving the garage of a home with a package.

Porter said when the couple saw him they dropped the package and fled. Porter, suspecting a burglary, chased the two suspects on foot but temporarily lost them. Off-duty California Highway Patrol Officer Dennis Mozeleski who lives in the area heard the commotion outside and managed to grab the couple. In a few moments Porter arrived on the scene to take custody of the suspects.

Police said the suspects had broken into a garage owned by Nelson Parker of 12412 Monte Vista Ave.

Inland Dairy at White Avenue and First Street in La Verne was robbed Wednesday afternoon by a young man armed with a small-caliber revolver.

An employe, Hasmukh Bhakta, 24, Glendora, was forced to lie on the floor while the man fled after obtaining cash. The robber was described as a thin Negro in his late teens wearing a knit cap, brown trousers and a jacket.

A Claremont man told police he was robbed of $1,900 he said he won in a dice game in Pomona earlier this week.

The victim, James H. Roberts, 45, Claremont, said he had won the amount during an evening of crap shooting at a Pomona address when the big loser got angry and pulled a pistol. The man grabbed up the money and drove away, Roberts said.

Opposes Ford's proposal

Board acts to keep school food plan

Pomona school board-wanting to preserve the district's free breakfast and lunch programs next year has authorized the administration to write elected officials protesting President Ford's plan to repeal all Federal Child Nutrition legislation.

This plan, if enacted, would be detrimental effect on Pomona's school food services, said Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services.

Ford's plan is to provide block grants to states to be used under certain restrictions amounting to $6 billion to $7 billion less than is being spent to subsidize breakfast, lunch and milk programs this year.

Nichols said the probable effect of the new plan on Pomona would be a substantial increase in the cost of school lunches to children not eligible for free food and in the cost of milk.

He said the free breakfast program would be completely eliminated, as would the summer feeding program sponsored jointly each year by the school district and the city.

Currently, more than half the meals being served by the school cafeteria system are free. Nichols said 197,262 meals were served in January and of that total, 110,948 or 56 per cent were free.

Free breakfasts are served to eligible children at six elementary schools in Pomona. Free lunches are served to eligible children at all the schools.

Vandals fire at parked cars

Montclair police today were continuing their investigation of vandals who early Friday apparently drove up and down city streets shooting the windows out of more than 20 parked cars.

Police believe the windows were broken with either a pellet gun or a BB gun. Damage was reported, beginning about 10 a.m. Friday, from all sections of the city.

Anyone who may have seen shots being fired at parked automobiles Friday morning is asked to call the police department at 621-4771.

Injured motorcyclist listed as 'satisfactory'

A motorcyclist was listed in satisfactory condition Friday after suffering a cerebral concussion in Pomona when the front end of his motorcycle fell apart as he was driving at San Antonio and Franklin avenues Wednesday evening.

Michael J. Bushman, 17, 909 E. Philadelphia St., was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment and later released.

Police said Bushman had extended the forks on the front of his motorcycle that day. They worked loose and the wheel flew off, officers said.

Film by Poly group ready

Members of Alpha Kappa Sigma fraternity at Cal Poly tonight will present the premiere of a movie they have produced.

The Bible says, "The Blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin."

God loves man, but still hates man's sin.

Airport group gets briefing on prospects

New OIA runway at least 18 months off

A second environmental impact report needed for a replacement runway at Ontario International Airport may be completed by June.

But actual construction of the concrete and asphalt strip may not begin for 12 months as the report passes through federal agencies and the Los Angeles Department of Airports prepares engineering plans.

Robert Davidson, deputy general manager for the airports department, gave an update Thursday to members of the Friends of Ontario International Airport.

The Olsen Laboratories, Inc., is preparing a supplemental report to answer questions raised at public hearings on the initial impact study completed by the Northrop Corp. The second study was set for competion late 1974 but a change in personnel has caused the delay.

Davidson said Olsen consultants are investigating 118 questions raised during the initial public hearings. Once the second report is completed, it will be given to the Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners.

If approved, it would then be presented to the Federal Aviation Administration which could hold public hearings.

From here, the report could be distributed to various other federal agencies before going to the Environmental Protection Alency which also could hold a public hearing, Davidson explained.

And should the federal agencies give their approval, there is always the prospect of some person living near the airport filing a suit in federal court, he said. Then the matter would get into a lengthy litigation Davidson said.

But if the impact report flows smoothly through the legislative channels, its approval could be given within six months, he added. "Then we would have to commission the preparation of plans and specifications which could take from four to six months."

Davidson said the engineering staff had already done some preliminary work and that funds for the project are included in the department's capital outlay budget.

"We do feel the replacement runway is essential to the airport," said Davidson.

The new 10,200 foot runway is proposed to be built 750 feet south of and parallel with the existing runway.

The eastern threshold on the new runway would be aligned 2,000 feet farther east to allow departing planes to be at a higher altitude when going over residential areas.

And the new runway would permit the landing of the new wide-bodied aircraft. Some airport supporters believe these are needed for some of the major airlines to schedule flights from Ontario to the East Coast.

Davidson also reported on a study undertaken of extending the airport's existing diagonal runway for take-offs by commercial jets.

"We have formed a staff force within our staff and are now looking at the legal and environmental aspects along with the impact area," he reported. "We should have our report ready to be presented to the board of commissiners next May."

Davidson emphasized the diagonal runway would be used only for takeoffs and be used only when the airport gets into a substantial volume of air traffic.

In another matter, he reported airport officials are working with Los Angeles and Orange counties supervisors in providing better ground transportation system for Ontario.

"The ground transportation problem in Southern California is a major obstacle to air transportation," he said.

"There seems to be some enthusiasm by the Orange County Board of Supervisors to join in the project of starting a ground transportation service."

He noted the Orange County supervisors have a "hot and cold" interest in shipping air passengers to Ontario rather than developing the Orange County Airport.

A better transit system may encourage more people to use the Ontario facility, said Davidson.

Scripps College chief resigning

President Mark H. Curtis of Scripps College will resign on June 30, 1976.

Curtis, in announcing his resignation, pointed out that by June of next year he would have served as president for 12 years.

"When I accepted the appointment as president in 1964 I expressed an opinion to the board that 10 years was about as long as I should be expected to stay," Curtis said.

Curtis, 54, is a native of Medford, Minn. He holds bachelor, master and doctorate degrees from Yale University. He taught history at Williams College from 1950 to 1953 when he became an assistant professor of history at UCLA.

He was associate dean of the UCLA graduate division when he left in 1964 to become president of Scripps.

Curtis is president of the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities, a director of the American Council on Education and chairman of the Policy Board for the Project "Change in Liberal Education" sponsored by five national educational associations.

A search committee chaired by George S. Wheaton, Scripps trustee, will be formed soon to select a new president.

Curtis said he has no definite plans about what he will do upon leaving the college, but wants to be free to consider various possibilities.

Convalescent hospital will have open house

Pomona Convalescent Hospital will sponsor an open house Sunday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The event at the hospital, 651 N. Main St., will be one of a number of open houses that day held by participating member facilities of the Los Angeles County Council of Nursing Home Associations.

Arnold Freed, council of nursing homes association president, said "In view of recent bad publicity about conditions in a few nursing homes, our association believes it is important that the public have the opportunity to visit one of our member facilities in their neighborhood to see that these are isolated cases, and the vast majority of nursing homes subscribe to only the finest health care standards.

Expected to attend the open house are Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire; Pomona Councilman Charles Bader; William Herrera, an assistant to Att. Gen. Evelle Younger and a former Pomona councilman; and a representative from Supervisor Peter Schabarums office.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burggraf, operators of the local convalescent hospital, are inviting the entire community to attend the open house. Refreshments will be served.

'Sunshine', new TV series, spotlighted

The new NBC series "Sunshine," seen Thursdays at 8 p.m., is the cover and cover-up subject of TV Week in Sunday's Progress-Bulletin.

It's the story of a single father raising 5-year-old daughter.

The inside color page features "The Law," a three-part mini-series which begins on NBC Wednesday at 10 p.m.

Disaster unit: city's 'eyes, ears'

"We don't direct traffic or fight fires, but serve as volunteer eyes and ears for the Claremont police, fire department, or wherever we are needed." That's the way David Buxton, a member of the Claremont Disaster Communications Group, described his group to the Claremont City Council this week.

Buxton explained that the local communications group is part of a countywide and nationwide organization called Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Services, shortened to "RACES."

Buxton, an engineer at General Dynamics Pomona, is a ham radio operator as are all other members of the local RACES unit.

Buxton detailed how for the past two Fourth of Julys the hams have worked with the police and the city Parks and Recreation Department in coordinating the parade, collecting lost children, and the evening fireworks show. "We even had them on roofs to spot fires," Buxton said.

The past two Halloweens the RACES members had roving units serving as eyes for the local police. Units patroied specific areas to look out for vandalism.

Every Monday evening the members conduct on-the-air drills at their homes with Buxton leading the drill at the Emergency Operating Center at the police station.

Monday night, 15 of the 29 members participated, and even a ham from Hawaii made contact.

The RACES membership comes mostly from Claremont, but includes many from outlying cities. All have been registered with the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, and may be used any place in the county for disaster communications work.

The group built and erected the communications antennae on the new police station, and built from surplus civil defense and old police equipment the operational equipment in the emergency operational center at the station.

"We urgently need some new equipment" for the emergency center, Buxton explained.

He said that the group would like to obtain equipment for a mobile communications van with an Emergency Center similar to the one in the station, but the equipment is expensive.

"We need new members," he said. "We will take help from anybody. We serve Claremont first."

Ex-S.B. County official arrested

MALIBU (AP)—John T. Orsini, the former executive director of San Bernardino's Economic Development Council, was arrested Thursday on embezzlement grand theft and forgery charges.

Orsini allegedly embezzled at least $6,000 from the council before he resigned Jan. 31.

A county grand jury indicted him on four counts of embezzling public money, two counts of grand theft and two counts of forgery.

Arraignment is set for Friday in San Bernardino Superior Court.

NATIONAL AWARD

Scout who saved life of drowning boy honored

One month after he learned the procedure, Boy Scout Ron Grigsby, 13, Diamond Bar, used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to save a life.

For this act, he was awarded the Medal of Merit for meritorious service by the National Boy Scout Council Court of Honor, through Old Baldy Council.

The gold medal with a yellow and blue ribbon was presented to Ron by Old Baldy Council scout executive Ron Brundage at the council's annual recognition dinner March 6 in Claremont.

Ron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Grigsby, 3128 Castle Rock Road, is a member of Boy Scout Troop 777.

On Aug. 25, 1974, Ron was swimming in a neighbor's pool with some friends. One of the others, Ken Browning, 13, saw that 5-year-old Ben Schroeder, his cousin, was underwater, and pulled him out.

"I checked Ben. He wasn't breathing," Ron recalled this week. "I started giving him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. I worked for 5 to 10 minutes. I got him started breathing.

"Then the firemen came. They said I saved his life. They took him to the hospital. He was checked out and they let him go home."

Ron learned to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation last July at Cherry Valley Scout Camp.

Ron is an eighth grader at Suzanne Junior High School in Walnut. He has two sisters and a brother.

No court action against mom who made threat in rape case

A Fontana woman will not have to post a bond insuring the safety of a young man who pleaded guilty recently in Pomona Superior Court to statutory rape involving her daughter.

At a hearing Thursday, Judge Francis J. Garvey relented and discharged the woman, Mrs. Laura Anderson, after deciding she need not post the bond. The court could have ordered her to put up as much as $5,000 for a six-month period.

The hearing was the result of threats Mrs. Anderson was reported to have made against Dennis McKnight, 18, Fontana, when he appeared for probation hearing and sentencing last month. Mrs. Anderson had complained then of injustice and was upset that McKnight was free and had been allowed to plead guilty to the statutory offense instead of one of forcible rape.

Chino schools to convert to self-insurance plan with a private company

Despite a protest from teachers, the Chino school district will self-insure in future workmen's compensation cases.

The school board, which actually approved the self-insurance plan two weeks ago, in lieu of the state workmen's compensation plan, received final material on the conversion Tuesday night.

The district will be contracting with R. L. Kautz and Co. of Los Angeles to set up the new plan, which will be effective April 1.

Teachers, however, expressed fears the new insurance program will not adequately cover employes.

Rudy Gomez, chairman of the Certificated Employe Council (CEC), asked the board to postpone action on the conversion until the matter can be discussed in "meet and confer" negotiating sessions.

Supt. Royce Lapp said, however, that the issue does not affect employes' coverage at all, and there is no requirement for negotiating with teachers. "It's a simple board action item," he added.

Gomez referred to the fact that the district is obligated for all workmen's compensation benefits "for injured or diseased employes, or their dependents in the event of an employes' death."

"We'd find ourselves in a tough financial bind in the case of a family suing the district after a death on school grounds," he said. He referred to a recent incident in which a shop teacher died as a result of injuries received in an explosion at Chino High School.

"Let's face it," Gomez added. "Bombing is a popular thing in today's society. If one coffee lounge with six teachers in it went up, you'd have plenty of financial liability in the district."

Lapp countered Gomez' remarks by stating there is a "covering" insurance policy that goes with the self-insurance plan. "It covers disasters," he said.

The basic self-insurance will be established with a $50,000 deductible. "We'll cover our own problems up to $50,000, by setting up our own fund, taken from premiums we would have paid under state workmen's compensation," he said. Beyond that, there is the policy for disasters.

"By law, we must have the same standards as workmen's compensation," Lapp added.

In negligence cases, the district has "several million dollars" in liability insurance, he pointed out.

He explained, also, that the savings in premiums no longer paid could mean $50,000 to the district each year.

In other action this week, the board voted after an executive session not to rehire former Chino High School teacher Joe Farley.

Farley, a probationary teacher, had requested reemployment. He was an intern at the high school last year, and was given a one-semester contract for the 1974-75 year, ending in January.

Board president Eva Weiszbrod said, there was no other position available for him at the time of his termination. Other district officials indicated he was terminated because of a drop in enrollment at the high school.

A spokesman for Chino Federation of Teachers (CFT), representing Farley said he could have been placed at another district school instead of being laid off. Farley was a journalism teacher and advisor to the high school newspaper.

County recount slated Monday

Bonita to get final election verdict

A recount to officially determine who is entitled to the third vacancy on the Bonita school board for the next four years will be held Monday.

The official tally will be conducted by deputies of Leonard Panish, Los Angeles County registrar of voters, and is expected to be completed in one day.

It was requested by Clell Hoffman of La Verne, who according to the unofficial count, trails incumbent Robert Rimpau of San Dimas by 35 votes.

According to those tabulations, Rimpau received 2,243 votes compared with 2,208 for Hoffman.

Although the outcome of that election remains in doubt until next week, there is no such cloud over the victory of the school district's override proposal. Its impressive showing at the polls has prompted Richard Clowes, county superintendent of schools, to learn more about it.

Supt. James Johnson told the school board he has received an invitation from the county offices "to share Bonita's 'secret' to their amazing success at the polls on March 4."

At a meeting on March 17 Johnson, and any others from the district who wish to do so, will meet with other districts' representatives to talk about the methods used.

It was noted that the rate of favorable vote and the number of voters turning out for a school election exceeded anything within the memory of board and administration members.

Within La Verne precincts the vote was 70 per cent in favor and 30 per cent opposed, with one precinct reporting an 88 per cent approval and another with a 84 per cent in favor. The vote in San Dimas precincts showed a less favorable response with an overall vote of a little less than 60 per cent in favor and a little more than 40 per cent opposed. Two San Dimas precincts voted the measure down.

Bridge

An old pro baits hook

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Every time we think of deceptive plays, we come back to a standard play that wasn't standard 35 years or so ago. Harry Fishbein of New York was the first to make it.

Fishbein sat West and was defending against a six-no-trump contract.

He opened the nine of spades. His partner slapped the ace on dummy's queen and led back a spade. Declarer proceeded to cash two spades, three hearts and three diamonds — slowly and carefully — in the manner of a man who had a problem somewhere.

The manner did not matter to Harry. Harry knew that his jack of clubs was the only card South could be worrying about and he would only have that worry if his four-card suit were clubs.

So, when finally South led dummy's king of clubs and East followed with the three, Harry dropped the nine spot.

This really gave South a cause to think. If the nine had not dropped, the play to his ace would have been automatic because there would be no way to pick up four to the jack-nine in the East hand.

Now, South could pick up four to the jack in the East hand; so he plays dummy's queen of clubs. After that play there was no way to finesse the jack.

Noisy burglar makes capture easy for cops

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The burglar was intent on his work, and not even the ringing of the burglar alarm could deter him. For police, it made the capture a bit easier.

The suspect entered the Wells Fargo bank branch by smashing a rear window, touching off the alarm. Despite the noise, he used a crowbar on the knobs of the vault.

After his futile banging, he climbed back out the window — and into the arms of waiting officers who had been alerted by the alarm.

He refused to give his identity, or to receive treatment for cuts suffered while climbing through the broken window.

But police said that fingerprints showed he was Lawrence A. Aikens, 20, Oakland.

Don't know your tire size? It's as simple as A-B-C.

Well, almost as simple.

Some people say that size isn't important. But it all depends on what you're measuring.

In tires, size makes a big difference.

Especially when you're comparing prices, because big tires can cost a lot more than small tires.

• If you see a screaming headline advertising a low tire price, check the fine print. You may discover the cheapie is only a little tire that fits midget sports cars.

The size that fits your car could be a bigger tire that costs half again as much.

Prices don't mean a thing unless you know your size.

So let's review the ABC's of determining the size that fits your car.

With the recent improvements in tire design and the conglomeration of conventional bias, belted bias and radial ply tires, sizes have become fairly complicated.

We'll try to simplify it. The handy-dandy chart printed below will help you follow along.

First, the basics. There are three possible measurements to a tire.

1) Width: the part of the tire you see as it rolls toward you.

2) Hole: the part you don't see as it rolls by.

3) Ratio: the width to the height. (The height being that portion of the tire between the ground and the bottom edge of the hole.)

Conventional bias ply tires have only the first two measurements. You've seen them stamped on side walls for years.

7.50-14, for example. This means the tire, measured from sidewall to sidewall, is seven-and-one-half inches wide. And the hole is fourteen across.

That was simple enough. But in 1965, tire manufacturers began complicating it.

To lower the overall height of the tire, they dropped 7.50-14's and went to 7.75-14's. 7.00-14's became 7.35-14's. This provided a squattier profile and cushioned ride.

You can see the change in the chart.

Whereas pre-1965 tires were nearly 100% as high as wide, the 1965s became 83% high as wide. Thus the number 83. More about this later.

Now on to belted tires. They're another breed. They have three measurements.

The first two measurements are the same. Almost.

The hole size is still measured in inches. And it still comes after the dash. But the width designation is in letters instead of inches.

In other words, where a conventional tire reads 7.75-14, a belted tire reads F78-14. (Don't let the 78 throw you. We'll get to that.)

So what was once 7.75 is now F. What was once 6.45 is now B. What was once 8.85 is now J. What were once apples are now oranges.

Anyway, just remember the closer the letter to the end of the alphabet, the wider the tire.

Now back to that "78" we snuck in earlier.

The third measurement. Ratio of width to height. Sometimes called the aspect ratio.

There are three of these ratios to note. "78", "70" and "60". 78 means the tire is 78% as high as it is wide. And so on.

You see these ratios written in tire ads as the "78 Series", "70 Series" and "60 Series".

To simplify it, just remember that a "78 Series" tire is narrower than a "70", and a "60 Series" is fatter.

The last tires to discuss are radials. Those beautiful modern-day wonders we recommend for best performance.

They're measured the same as belted tires. But in millimeters, except for the hole.

So, that same 7.50-14 conventional measurement we started with—the one that became F78-14—now becomes a 195R14.

195 millimeters wide. R for radial. 14 for the hole.

As a "78 Series" tire, it's an FR78-14.

F for the 195 millimeters. R for radial, 78 for ratio fatness. And again, 14 for the hole. Or rim.

The chart down in the lower left contains everything we just told you.

Cut it out.

Someday, maybe Akron will simplify things and tires will come in just three sizes.

Large, medium and small.

Until then, this comparison chart will help you understand present tire sizes and to compare prices of conventional, belted and radial tires.

Selfishly, we believe a well-informed customer is more apt to buy tires from us.

Another use for old tire casings

A reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer recently visited the plant of Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.

He observed the final stages of cooking up a 225 ton batch of high carbon steel about to be tapped from a basic oxygen furnace.

One of the steel workers pitched several worn out passenger casings through the furnace door.

"Hey, why'd you do that?"

According to Claude Profitt, assistant works superintendent, "When you add oxygen to molten metal, slag and foam rise to the top. We need to control them. Old tires serve that purpose."

They used to use wood, sulfur or rock salt, but these they have to buy. Old tire casings they haul in from tire dealers in the area, for nothing.

The tires, which are almost pure carbon, burn up within a minute or so. Fumes are caught by the precipitator system so there's no rubber odor.

Build a steel mill in every neighborhood where tires are sold.

Do you know someone who's not afraid of hard dirty work and wants to learn the tire business from the ground up?

Our men are moving ahead.

And we have zero prejudice against blacks, women, the mobile handicapped, or anyone else. All we measure is ability, responsibility, and dedication.

Our guarantee: If in normal use a tire bought at 4day fails due to workmanship, road hazard or running flat, or wears out before you have received the guaranteed mileage, we'll give you credit (or mail you cash) for unused miles upon return of tire and guarantee. Credit will be percent of unused miles multiplied by price. Even if prices have increased, replacement will be at price you paid minus the credit due you. To keep in effect, bring guarantee to any 4day Tire Store every 4,000 to 5,000 miles so we can inspect tires, rotate them (free) if necessary, adjust pressure, inform you if alignment or other work required, & record date & mileage. Needed corrections must be made within 500 miles at any qualified repair shop. Then keep repair bill in the car with your guarantee. In most rapid wear cases, driver is harder than average on tires or car has mechanical problems, therefore a rapid wear replacement tire will not carry minimum mileage guarantee unless customer steps up to a longer wearing tire.

Khmer Rouge: from tiny movement to control of Cambodia

By MATT FRANJOLA
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — In the past three years the Khmer Rouge has grown from a tiny Communist movement to a virtual government that now controls 80 per cent of Cambodia's land and 40 per cent of its people. It has brought the Lon Nol government to the brink of defeat.

Not much is known of the Khmer Rouge — which means Red Cambodians. But they are said to be rigidly Communistic, distrustful of foreigners, ruthless, dynamic and capable of bringing Cambodia's easygoing culture and society more into line with China's.

The Khmer Rouge's chief enemy was Prince Norodom Sihanouk when he was the nation's leader. But they became allies after he was ousted in March 1970 and took up exile in Peking.

When the Indochina war first spread to Cambodia, the insurgents consisted of pro-Sihanouk forces, old-line Communists, Marxist romantics and elements who opposed the rightwing government Lon Nol had set up in Phnom Penh.

At that time, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were in the forefront of the fight in Cambodia. During a two-year North Vietnamese occupation of large areas of the country, about 5,000 Cambodians who went to North Vietnam after the French defeat in Indochina in 1954 returned fully trained to take over the organization of the Khmer Rouge.

North Vietnamese troops kept the Phnom Penh army at bay while in rear areas insurgents with the Hanoi-trained Cambodians began to control the population and recruit, form and train an army.

According to scores of refugees interviewed, life for the people in Khmer Rouge areas did not begin to change until North Vietnamese troops began leaving to prepare for their Easter offensive in South Vietnam in 1972. Slowly life became regimented.

Best known among the Khmer Rouge leaders is Khieu Samphan, 44, a former Sihanouk official and National Assembly deputy who was sentenced to death by Sihanouk and now is deputy premier, commander in chief and minister of defense in the Khmer Rouge government.

Since 1970 many of the factions within the insurgent movement have been eliminated, and the tightly knit Communist party of Cambodia has become dominant. Battles between factions have been reported, but the Communists have gained control of the movement, and they have party members in charge of every region, sector, province and most districts.

As part of the consolidation, pro-Sihanouk elements are being eliminated or absorbed. Sihanouk himself has said that if he comes back it will only be as a figurehead.

The roots of Cambodia's Communist movement go back to 1951 and the People's party. The Communists trace their history in three stages: 1951-54 a political-armed struggle against the French; 1954-67 a political struggle against Sihanouk; and 1967 the armed struggle resumed.

Khieu Samphan is slowly replacing Sihanouk as the Khmer Rouge's international leader. However, it is believed that he is not the top man. The movement appears to be controlled by a central committee of relative unknowns. Among them are Saloth Sar, secretary general of the Cambodian Communist party; Son Sen, chief of staff of the People's Armed Forces; Ieng Sary, special adviser to the deputy premier; and Sok Thuok, deputy minister of security. Two women also are considered influential — Ieng Sary and Khieu Ponnary, the wife of Saloth Sar.

After their reorganization in September 1972, the insurgents began to communize and collectivize the countryside while at the same time launching their first all-Cambodian offensive. It almost toppled the Phnom Penh government. The drive was stopped by U.S. bombing which ended on Aug. 15, 1973.

About 400,000 refugees fled Khmer Rouge zones in 1974, according to Western relief agencies.

Chim Sao, 29, a watch repairman in Kompong Cham Province was one such refugee.

"The people are separated into all kinds of groups. Chinese, Vietnamese, Cambodians, women, farmers and youths," he said.

"Each group has a president. Everyone wears black. Monks work in the fields during the day and can pray at night. Marriage is prohibited until age 35. Travel from village to village requires a permit and people are taken away for minor infractions of rules and never seen again."

Kim Sath, 24, an elementary school teacher from Svay Rieng Province said, "If they knew I was a teacher they would have killed me. I disguised myself as a farmer and cut wood and worked in the fields."

Kim Sath said that early in 1974 "the village security men came to our house and garden and made lists of everything we owned. They said it now belonged to the village cooperative. Before we killed a chicken we had to ask permission from the village president."

Villagers from Kompong Cham and Oudong said civil servants and soldiers were killed after they were captured. In Battambang province, only 80 out of 800 people escaped after the villages of Tahan and Tagen were overrun last May.

In eastern Cambodia, there is a marriage of convenience between the Cambodian insurgents and the North Vietnamese troops guarding the Ho Chi Minh Trail. The Cambodians supply rice and produce in exchange for war materials.

Ordinary Khmer Rquge soldiers and the North Vietnamese live in separate areas and business is conducted by liaison personnel. At times there have been open clashes.

Upland council to get U.S. cemetery plea

A resolution supporting the establishment of a new national cemetery at March Air Force Base, Riverside, will be presented at the Upland City Council meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

After examining nine proposed sites for a new national cemetery in California, the Veterans Administration has reduced the potential areas to three sites. These are March AFB, White Wolf Valley southeast of Bakersfield, and a site at Los Banos adjacent to the San Luis Reservoir.

Three existing national cemeteries in California are full. These are Ft. Rosecrans, San Diego; Golden Gate, San Bruno; and the Presidio at San Francisco. The fourth cemetery in West Los Angeles will be full by fall.

The March AFB was dedicated in March 1918 and has been an active military base for 57 years. The cemetery could be established on an available 695-acre tract at the base which is currently being leased for farming.

Supporters of the local site point that the Riverside area cemetery would serve thousands of military and veteran personnel residing in the densely populated Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties.

Funds to state

$185 million extra for highways

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California will get up to $185 million in extra federal highway funds this year, a state transportation official says.

That will boost the state's total allocation of federal highway money over $300 million, Heinz Heckeroth, chief of the Department of Transportation's legislative affairs division, said Thursday.

The extra $183 million to $185 million will come out of the $2 billion in highway funds which President Ford made available Feb. 11 to stimulate the economy.

The conditions for getting that money were that the projects go out to bid by June 30, and at least 80 per cent of the funds should go into construction contracts, he said.

Heckeroth's estimate of California's share of the special highway money is $55 million higher than Secretary of Business and Transportation Donald Burns made two weeks ago.

"It's a day-to-day thing. We're obviously trying to get as many projects in shape as possible to qualify for the extra funds," Heckeroth explained.

He said he could not release a list of the projects which will get the accelerated federal funds because not all of them are firmly committed yet.

"I've got a recommended list, but that doesn't say we're going to get all of them out in time. I don't want to make an assumption the list will hold, because I know it won't. Some will go off the list, and others will come on," Heckeroth said.

But Heckeroth said there would be no projects on the list that have not been previously approved by the California Highway Commission and already scheduled for construction sometime in the next two to three years.

"Obviously in our pipeline we have a lot of projects. All we can do is speed up some of them already in the pipeline.'

He did say that of the extra $183 million to $185 million which he expects to get from the federal government, $120 million of it is for projects on the interstate highway system.

Earthquake forecasting plan urged

WASHINGTON (AP) John L. Burton, both D-Cali. have introduced bills in Congress that would create a $50 million per year, 10-year program to predict earthquakes and lessen their damage.

Cranston and Burton said the measure could reduce property damage from earthquakes in California by $21 billion and save 40,000 lives in the Bay area alone.

"There is a growing recognition that earthquakes are not just a California problem," the lawmkers said. They said 39 states with almost 25 per cent of the U.S. population have been identified as lying in earthquake-prone areas. "And all 50 states are "subject to some earthquake-related hazards, they said.

Under the Cranston-Burton program scientists would develop ways of predicting earthquakes, develop an early warning system to reduce casualties and property loss and suggest improved construction practices and land use for high earthquake-risk areas.

In addition, scientists also would investigate ways of controlling or moderating the earthquakes themselves.

The legislators aid that "substantial progress has already been made in earthquake prediction, especially in China, Japan and the Soviet Union. But development has lagged in the U.S., primarily because of insufficient investment of funds."

The prediction by Menlo Park scientists of the Thanksgiving Day earthquake near Hollister last year may spur the Interior Department to be more enthusiastic about investing in earthquake research, they said.

Optimistic Vikings shoot for CIF 3-A title tonight

Hoosiers open NCAA playoffs

By The Associated Press

When Indiana took over as the No. 1 college basketball team in the nation midway through the season, Coach Bobby Knight said the only thing that really counted was being No. 1 after the playoffs.

That countdown begins at 9 a.m. today in Lexington, Ky., when the unbeaten Hoosiers meet Texas-El Paso in a nationally-televised game, the first of the NCAA playoffs that pit 32 teams in 16 games at eight sites in four regions.

There are a lot of hotshots between the Hoosiers and the top of the National Collegiate Athletic Association title game in San Diego March 31, including perennial powerhouse UCLA, ranked No. 2; Maryland's tenacious Terps, ranked fourth, and Marquette and Kentucky, fifth and sixth, to name a few.

Skeptics thought the Hoosiers' demise was imminent when Scott May, named an All-America Friday, was sidelined late in the season with a broken arm. But the team that boasts no superstars proved it could prevail with depth and takes a 29-0 record against Texas-El Paso. And May may even get to play. At least, Knight said he would suit up for the game.

The Bruins and Coach John Wooden, seeking their 10th NCAA crown in 12 years, probably will be without the services of All-American David Meyers. Last weekend against Southern Cal, Meyers compounded a severe charley horse which was triggered in his right thigh three weeks ago.

And the luck of the draw will eliminate one top gun early since Kentucky and Marquette meet in the first round. The Wildcats, reliving the Adolph Rupp era of basketball supremacy, take a 22-4 record against 23-3 Marquette, riding a 12-game winning streak.

"We're on top of a wave right now and I'd just like to take it straight into the shore," said Coach Al McGuire. Marquette is making its ninth straight postseason appearance but has moved out of the regional level only once.

After Indiana is tested by Texas-El Paso, 20-5, NBC will switch its cameras to Tuscaloosa, Ala., for the Marquette-Kentucky battle in another Mideast Regional game. By the time that game is over, the winner of the other Lexington matchup, No. 15 Oregon State, 18-10, and Middle Tennessee, 23-4, should be decided. Two unranked teams, Central Michigan, 20-5, and Georgetown, 189, will clean up day's activity in that region in a late afternoon game at Tuscaloosa.

Meanwhile, two other closely-matched teams will be televised from the opening jump to the final buzzer in the Tempe, Ariz., segment of the West Regional. In that 4:10 p.m. EDT game, 10th-ranked Alabama, 22-4, will meet No. 8 Arizona State, 23-3. In the other game, Nevada-Las Vegas, 22-4, will meet San Diego State, 14-12.

At Pullman, Wash., it will be Montana, 20-6, vs. Utah State, 21-5, and UCLA, 23-3, vs. Michigan, 19-7.

In other night games, at Philadelphia in the East, Penn, 23-4, will take on Kansas State, 18-8, and La Salle, 22-6, will meet Syracuse, 20-7. At Charlotte, N.C., it will be North Carolina, 21-7, vs. New Mexico State, 20-6, and Furman, 22-6, vs. Boston College, 20-7.

Third-ranked Louisville and No. 4 Maryland get into action in the Midwest Regional. Maryland, 22-4, will face Creighton, 20-6, in the second half of a doubleheader at Lubbock, Tex. The opener will be Texas A&M, 20-6, vs. Cincinnati 21-5. Louisville, 24-2, will meet Rutgers, 22-6, in the first game at Tusla, Okla., followed by Notre Dame, 18-8, vs. Kansas, 19-7.

LOS ANGELES — For a coach who's missing one of his star players, Mike Wells seems to be in an exceptional mood.

When there was just a little over 24 hours remaining before his Garey High Vikings were to battle San Gabriel for the CIF 3-A basketball championship, Wells was bubbling with optimism.

"I have a feeling . . .," he said a few times while conducting practice in the Vikings gym Friday afternoon.

Hopefully, that feeling will come true when the Vikings and the Matadors do battle tonight at the Los Angeles Sports Arena for the division championship. It all begins at 7:30 p.m.

Garey will be without starting forward Delbert McDonald, the leading scorer on the club and one of the top rebounders. "Mac" underwent an operation Wednesday for a blood clot in his head, caused by a minor skull fracture.

He is expected to leave the hospital today, and has been given permission to sit on the team bench during the game tonight. But he'll be in his street clothes.

With him out of the lineup, it appeared Garey's chances of knocking off San Gabriel would be cut considerably. But Wells has that "feeling."

"I have a feeling Sonny (Baldez) is going to have a super game," the Garey skipper beamed.

"I have a feeling David (Larry) is going to play a great game tomorrow night, he bubbled.

"Gary (Carpenter) has been jumping better than ever," he reported.

He wasn't acting like he was going to miss McDonald's presence.

"Oh we'll miss him a helluva lot," the third-year head coach assured. "But we're ready."

It'll be the balanced Viking attack against San Gabriel's Ray Ellis and Company.

Ellis is the Matadors' 6-foot-11 center, who is considered the best center in the 3-A division. He had averaged 25.2 points per game during the regular season.

The Garey lineup will probably include forwards Gary Carpenter (6-5) and Sonny Baldez (6-3), center David Larry (6-6), and guards Bill Evans (6-1) and Kent Jordan (6-0).

The Madators quintet figures to be Clay Brown (6-4) and Tom Zankovich (6-2) as forwards, Ellis at center, and Dale Young (6-2) and Dave Miller (6-0) at the guard spots.

San Gabriel has been known to display a one-man show, with the towering Ellis standing in the spotlight.

Forwards Brown and Zankovich have only averaged 11 and nine points per game this year, respectively. The two Matador guards are only averaging seven points an outing.

Garey, on the other hand, has gotten a 15-point output from Carpenter, a 13-point per game performance from Evans, and a small double-figure effort by Jordan.

Baldez and Larry have been averaging eight and nine points per game.

On the boards, Ellis has taken care of an average of 19 caroms per game. Carpenter and Larry have pulled down an average of 11 each.

Wells' strategy is to go right at Ellis offensively and hope to get him in foul trouble.

"We're going right at him right away," the Garey coach exclaimed. "What I've heard is that he's had a tendency to take it easy in the first half in order to avoid getting too many fouls."

Garey will be playing its usual man-to-man defense, while also applying full court pressure the whole way.

San Gabriel, on the other hand, will be playing a zone defense and will probably install a deliberate pass offense.

Garey enters the finals as the division's No.1 ranked team. The Vikings won the San Antonio League title with a 14-0 record and are carrying a 29-1 mark into the championship game.

San Gabriel finished the regular season as the 3-A's third ranked club. The Matadors won the Mission Valley League title and now boast a 29-3 seasonal mark.

Garey has been top-ranked all year. If the Vikings win tonight, they'll be the first valley team to win a CIF basketball championship since 1952, when Frank Elder's Chino Cowboys took the 3-A title.

Already, Garey has been the first valley team to reach the championship game in 11 years. Chino (3-A) and Alta Loma (2-A) got to the finals, but lost, in 1964.

UCLA has big experience edge

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — As George Raveling sees it, Michigan will be shooting for the national college basketball championship for one of a handful of times. But UCLA does that all the time.

"Every night they play, it's for the national championship— the other team is always trying to get a notch on its belt by beating them," said Raveling, who should know.

The head coach at Washington State, Raveling has been trying for three years to beat Coach John Wooden's club. So far nothing has worked, and Raveling thinks Michigan will have similar troubles today when the Wolverines meet the Bruins in a first-round NCAA West Regional tournament contest.

He also predicts that Big Sky Conference champion Montana will defeat independent Utah State, partially because a large contingent of Montana fans are expected to be here for the game.

Besides experience, Raveling thinks Michigan will find it difficult to overcome UCLA's superior size. "It will be a problem for Michigan to handle the UCLA press and contain the Bruins on the backboards," said Raveling. "Michigan is not a real big team."

Raveling says the Wolverines "have some fine talent"—notably center and team leader C.J. Kupec and guard Steve Grotte—but "they are not a physically dominating team like UCLA is accustomed to seeing."

Michigan was sufficiently physical to finish second in the Big 10 with a 19-7 overall record. UCLA, seeking its 10th national title in 12 years, led the Pacific-8, as usual, but lost three times while winning 23. Two of those losses were to conference teams.

Montana, however, is making its NCAA tournament debut. The Grizzlies won the Big Sky with a 13-1 league mark and a best-ever 20-6 overall.

"They play a good, tough man-to-man defense, and a Jud Heathcote team always has good strength inside," said Raveling. "They check off the board well, and they played a good schedule."

Furthermore, the game at WSU's Performing Arts Center is just a few miles from Moscow, Idaho, where Montana frequently meets conference rival Idaho.

"The Grizzlies will have at least 2,500 fans here, and Heathcote once coached here as an assistant, so he's got a good following," said Raveling. "That's got to help him a lot. He's in his own element."

Utah State, 21-5, played "a good independent schedule, and they might be stronger than most people think," said Raveling. The Aggies are strong inside, with two solid forwards in Rich Haws and Jimmy Moore. And Coach Dutch Belknap doesn't think much of the Grizzlies' crowd advantage. "It's not the fans that beat you," he said.

In the other NCAA West first-round doubleheader at Tempe, Ariz., Arizona State, 23-3, takes on Alabama, 22-4, and Nevada, Las Vegas, 22-4, meets San Diego State, 14-12.

Lakers blow big lead, but manage to win anyway

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers blew a 12-point second-quarter lead, then used two free throws apiece by Gail Goodrich and Stu Lantz in the last 35 seconds Friday night for a 105-104 National Basketball Association victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The defeat cost the Bucks a chance to move into third place in the Midwest Division ahead of Detroit, which lost to Chicago.

The Lakers led 99-91 with 6:17 to play, then went nearly four minutes without a point as the Bucks closed to within 99-96.

The Bucks' Mickey Davis tipped in a rebound with 1:50 to play, then sank two free throws with 1:12 left to cut the Laker lead to 101-100. Davis rebounded a missed shot by Lantz moments later and a layup by Jon McGlocklin gave the Bucks a 102-101 lead with 49 seconds left.

But Goodrich, who totaled 30 points, regained a one-point lead for Los Angeles with his two free throws 14 seconds later. McGlocklin then missed from deep in the corner. Corky Calhoun rebounded for the Lakers and Lantz sank his decisive free throws, making it 105-102, after a foul by McGlocklin.

Zamora wins crown with fourth-round KO

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Mexico's 20-year-old Alfonso Zamora knocked out Soo Hwan Hong of South Korea with a flurry of fourth-round punches capped by a left hook and captured the World Boxing Association bantamweight crown Friday night.

Zamora, from Mexico City, controlled the fight and became the youngest ever to hold the 118-pound title. Both the new champion and Hong, from Seoul, weighed at the exact 118 limit.

The stocky Mexican, giving up four inches in height at 5-foot-2, bulled his way in against his slim foe.

When Zamora caught Hong on the ropes late in the fourth round, he hammered home a series of rights and lefts to the body and the head that sent the Korean down for down for Referee George Latka's full count and at least two minutes longer.

Hong lay flat on his back as Dr. Jack Useem examined him, but finally climbed to his feet and made his way to his corner.

Zamora, just an even choice at ring time, ran his knockout record to 21 in as many professional fights and sent Hong down for the first time in his pro career.

There were no knockdowns prior to the knockout.

The first round proved slow with both fighters feeling each other out but with Zamora landing punches to the body.

Hong slammed an overhand right to the Mexican's head for the best punch of the second round but Zamora landed more often.

In the third, the young challenger managed to get in hard jabs despite his reach being three inches less than the Korean's.

Zamora also was pounding to the body, his announced strategy for wearing down Hong.

Big three challenge Doral leaders

MIAMI (AP) — The surprise leaders—Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong—continued to set the pace but pro golf's big guns wheeled into position Friday in the second round of the $150,000 Doral Open.

McCord and Armstrong, a pair of non-winning tour sophomores who shared the first-round lead, matched windblown 70s Friday and remained in a tie for the top spot with 138 totals, six under par.

But three of the game's greatest names—Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino—got themselves in shape to make a run at the longshot leaders.

Nicklaus scrambled to a 70 that included four bogeys and was just one shot out of the lead It 139, five under par on the lush, beautifully conditioned 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Miller, a three-time winner and the record-setting sensation of the tour this year, managed a 69 and was tied with Trevino at 141, three back of the leaders.

Trevino, the winner last week in the Citrus Open, again had to rally after a slow start. This time, he birdied two of his last four holes for a 71.

Mike Hill, a former Doral champion, was alone in fourth at 140 after a sandy 71. He made par from five bunkers to stay within two shots of the lead.

Tied with Trevino and Miller at 141 were Australian Bruce Crampton, Charles Coody, Forrest Fezler, distance-hitting Jim Dent and Butch Baird. Coody, a former Masters champion, had the tournament's best round with a 67. Crampton fashioned a 68, Fezzler shot 70, Baird 71 and Dent 72.

Arnold Palmer and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin are not competing.

McCord and Armstrong, whose brother Tom serves as his caddy, each had four birdies and a pair of bogeys to remain in front of the pack.

But, with 36 holes remaining in the chase for a $30,000 first prize, they have their work cut out for them.

Not only are they unfamiliar with the lead, their closest challengers are the most feared competitors in the game.

"Just one good round, one round that I don't start off ragged, and I could make it tough," said Trevino. He had to shoot 31 on the back nine to stay in contention Thursday and was two over par after seven holes Friday.

"I'm just kind of playing mediocre," said Miller, "but I'm having a lot of fun. I'm not sure I'm gonna win, but I'm sure not gonna give it away."

Interim coach gets Aztec job

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Tim Vezie, interim San Diego state basketball coach, was named the team's regular head coach Friday.

The announcement was made by San Diego State Athletic Director Dr. Ken Karr from Tempe, where San Diego State meets Nevada-Las Vegas in the first round of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Sports news in brief

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chuck Wepner arrived Friday, declaring he is in the best shape of his life for his attempt to take the world heavyweight boxing title from from Muhammad Ali at the Coliseum March 24.

"I have never trained this much or this hard for any other fight I've had," Wepner said upon his arrival.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — A slim field of six 3-year-olds was named Friday for Sunday's $54,200 San Felipe Handicap, the final stepping stone before the March 29 Santa Anita Derby.

In post position order the field for the 1⅛-mile San Felipe at Santa Anita is Fleet Velvet, Mr. Paul, Announcer, George Navonod, Diabolo and Rock of Ages.

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Hanny Wenzel of Liechtenstein won the women's slalom in the World Cup ski races Friday.

The 18-year-old Miss Wenzel had the fastest times in both runs to outclass second place Annemarie Moser-Proell of Austria. Miss Wenzel's total time was 84.23 seconds while Miss Proell, the five-time World Cup winner who has already clinched the title this year, had 85.17.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singh will try for his third straight stakes victory, Ascetic will try to get back on the winning track and Bombay Duck will make his 3-year-old debut today in the split Bay Shore Stakes at Aqueduct.

In all, 11 Kentucky Derby nominees will run in the two eight-horse, $40,000-added divisions of the seven-furlong Derby stepping stone.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Controversial slugger Dick Allen, the center of a recent non-trade between the Atlanta Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies, now wants to play baseball for the Chicago White Sox, a close friend says.

In addition, the Braves' slugger, who broke into the majors with the Phils and also has played for the White Sox, indicated he may file suit against the White Sox if they don't honor a contract he signed with the team in 1973.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran Bobby Jacks squeezed past four other contenders Friday to take a slim 17-pin lead in the second set of matches in a $75,000 pro bowling tourney here.

Jacks, of New Orleans, was third when the day began but won six of eight games and spilled 1,758 pins to take over the top spot in the Professional Bowlers Association tournament at Dick Weber Lanes.

Kingman avoids grandiose goals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Dave Kingman wishes everybody would delay judgment before tabbing him a future Babe Ruth or Hank Aaron.

"I don't make predictions for myself and I don't like other people to make predictions for me," the New York Mets' towering slugger said Friday.

"It's much too early to set grandiose goals or talk about great expectations. I know what some have said. I don't believe what I read. I'm busy trying to make this ball club, make myself into a complete player. Whatever happens, happens."

The versatile 26-year-old, purchased from the San Francisco Giants, is an early sensation of baseball's spring training, hitting four home runs—one of them a 500-foot blast in Fort Lauderdale Wednesday night off the New York Yankees' Catfish Hunter.

"Longest shot I've ever seen," said Mets Manager Yogi Berra, who remembers when Mickey Mantle was blasting them out of the park.

"I never saw Frank Howard hit one that long," added Mets Coach Rube Walker.

"Out of sight," said batting instructor Phil Cavaretta. "That second home run he hit in the same game (also off Hunter) was something, too. He just reached for it and it went 350 feet."

"It was like a magnet on the bench when Dave hit that first home run against the Yankees," said pitcher Tom Seaver. "Everybody's mouth flew open at the same time and everybody rose together to try to follow the flight of the ball."

Bobby Bonds, Kingman's teammate at San Francisco before being traded to the Yankees, said Kingman is one man capable of hitting 60 home runs a season.

It's this kind of talk that jars the 6-foot-6, 210-pound Oregonian. "I'm pleased that someone thinks I have potential," he said. "But I don't like to think about personal goals."

Kingman hit 29 home runs and had 83 runs batted in in his first full year with the Giants in 1972.

Other winners for the Panthers were John Casey in the 120 high hurdles (14.6), John Tigner in the long jump (22-4) and Tom Guilfoyle in the discus (146-6).

Laird takes on 15-mile walk at fairgrounds

Ron Laird has just completed a three-week tour of the United States and Canada . . . walking.

Laird, a former employe in Pomona who is presently residing with a friend in Upland, set all kinds of records while competing in distance walking events across the country. Next on his scheduled is a 15-mile walk.

It's all a part of the First Annual Pomona Historical Days 15 mile run to be held Sunday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

Starting time is 9 a.m. with more than 100 top flight long distance runners and walkers expected to particiapte.

The course of the run and walk will be through parts of Pomona, San Dimas, La Verne and Claremont.

During the past month, Ron has spent most of his time traveling and walking himself into the record books.

He began his tour at the U.S. Olympic Invitational at Madison Square Garden in New York, and competed in the 1500 meter walk. The folowing week, being sponsored by the New York Athletic Club, he finished second at the National AAU championships in the two-mile walk, which qualified him to compete against the Russians in Richmond, Va.

There, where he was elected captain of the U.S. team and carried the stars and stripes in the opening ceremonies, he broke the national record for the three-mile walk in 20:27.

Recently, he competed in the Canadian Track and Field Indoors championships in Edmonton, where he established an new American and Canadian record in the 3,000 meter walk. He was clocked in 12:34.4.

Picket threat ends as NIT begins

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Invitation Basketball Tournament opens today at Madison Square Garden—and all the action will be inside the building.

A threat of pickets evaporated Friday when a civil rights leader came to a meeting of the minds with Garden officials.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, a Chicago civil rights activist, had threatened to have blacks picket the Garden at the NIT's opening day to protest the tourney's shutout of predominantly Negro teams.

But Jackson changed his plans when informed that leaders from some Negro schools would meet with Garden President Michael Burke on Monday to try to iron out the situation.

Jackson, director of "Operation Push", expressed his anger at the NIT earlier in the week.

"This year, despite all promises to the contrary, the eight-member NIT committee has yet to extend its first invitation to a black college," Jackson said prior to the opening of thr 38th annual NIT, the oldest post-season tournament in the country.

Hacienda League baseball

'Cats win opener

CIF finalist and defending Hacienda League baseball champion Bonita High opened the league campaign Friday with a 6-1 victory over Gladstone.

The win was Bonita's first in five games this season and coach Dick Salomon said, "we win the ones that count."

All-CIF selection Bill Bumstead paved the way for the victory Friday with a double, triple and a single in three appearances at the plate, driving in three runs.

Bumsted started at shortstop and then relieved All-CIF hurler H. P. Drake in the fourth inning to preserve the win.

Leadoff hitter Jerry Osborne singled once, walked three times, scored three times and stole three bases to help the offense.

In one other afternoon game in the Hacienda League, Alta Loma beat San Dimas, 4-1, with the help of three errors by the Saints.

Alta Loma scored three times in the second inning as Steve Hargraves, Bill Cannon and Regis Gubichuk singled. Gubichuk's base hit drove Hargraves home and Cannon and Gubichuk came around on two throwing errors.

Claremont-Mudd erupted for two runs in the ninth inning Friday afternoon to overcome USIU's 6-5 lead in a 7-6 non-conference baseball victory.

Behind 6-5 in the ninth the Stags responded with back-to-back singles by Greg Thompson and John Begerow to win it.

Claremont edges Charter Oak, 2-1

By MARK GRIP
P-B Correspondent

Claremont High scored an unearned run in the home half of the sixth inning as the result of a Mike Davis double, breaking a 1-1 tie, to give the Wolfpack a 2-1 victory over Charter Oak at Claremont Friday afternoon.

The Pack's Carl Cervantes reached first on an error to lead off the inning. Rich Tullis' sacifiifice attempt was then booted, putting runners at first and second.

After a strikeout, Davis hit a high, deep fly to center that Earl Baker lost in the sun for a double.

The Claremont pitching duo of Brian Fitzgerrells and Paul Sokolowski (1-1) combined in holding the Lancers to just one hit and an unearned run. The two issued just four walks while striking out five.

Claremont skipper Steve Lambert has been pleased with the performance of his pitchers lately. In Claremont's previous two outings both starting pitchers had complete game victories, the last being a two-hit shutout by Mel Pompa.

Lambert also praised his team's defense. In its last three games, Claremont has allowed only four runs.

The only Lancer run came in the fifth inning. Brian Harrison, the successor of Woody Hendricks on the mound, led off by reaching first on a fielding error.

After a strikout and a fly out, Baker walked to put runners at first and second. Randy Huggins' short fly to right fell in four a double to score Harrison and send Baker to third. Sokolowski then took over on the mound and retired the next batter.

Claremont scored the initial tally of the game as Dan Thomas, walked and advanced to second on a sacrifice.

Tullis followed the act by bombing a triple to left-center field to drive in Thomas.

Harrison, in his four innings of relief, struck out six Wolves while walking two and giving up up two hits.

The win improves Claremont's record (4-2), while dropping Charter Oak's ledger below the .500 percent mark at 2-3.

Dodgers nip Yanks, 8-7, with a pair of home runs

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Tom Paciorek and Willie Crawford hit home runs and Rick Auerbach capped a four-run sixth inning outburst with a two-run single to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-7 exhibition baseball victory over the New York Yankees Friday.

Paciorek hit his homer of Larry Gura in the third inning and Crawford greeted reliever Dick Tidrow with his blast in the fifth, breaking a 2-2 tie. After that homer, Steve Yeager was safe on an error and later scored on Paciorek's single.

The Yanks went ahead 5-4 in the bottom of the fifth on Alex Johnson's three-run homer but the Dodgers regained the lead in the sixth on singles by Joe Ferguson, Ron Cey and Crawford for one run, Yeager's double for another and Auerbach's decisive two-run single past third base. Angels' tickets on sale Monday

ANAHEIM — The Anaheim Stadium box office and all other Angels ticket outlets will open Monday, ticket manager Carl Gordon announced today. Over-the-counter sales at Anaheim Stadium will be conducted daily, from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Ticketron, with 104 locations at Broadway, Montgomery Ward and Sears stores, and Wallichs-Liberty Agencies, with more than 80 locations, are the Angels' other outlets.

The Angels meet the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers in the annual Freeway Series at Anaheim Stadium, April 4 and 5, both games at 7:30 p.m.

The Angels open the regular season against the Kansas City Royals at Anaheim Stadium on Monday, April 7. It will be the start of the American League's 75th anniversary season, the Angels' 15th year in the league and their 10th season at the Big-A.

After three games with the Royals, the Angels meet the Chicago White Sox for a weekend series, April 11-12-13, to conclude the first home stand.

Czech tennis star figures as choice in L.A. tourney

LOS ANGELES — Only five months ago, young Martina Navratilova wasn't allowed to keep any of her Virginia Slims tennis prize money due to her amateur status, but already in the new season she has amassed $58,050 and leads all women in the world in earnings on the circuit.

What's more, the 18-year-old from Revnice, Czechoslovakia, who is now allowed by her tennis association to keep 90 per cent of her earnings, is currently the favorite to win the $150,000 Virginia Slims Championships to be held in the Los Angeles Sports Arena Apr. 1-5.

Partly because of her nationally televised victory over Evonne Goolagong of Australia in the Virginia Slims of Boston, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, Navratilova also leads in the point race for the coverted Silver Ginny Award, given to the top woman singles player.

The emotional youngster, barely 17 when she first appeared in the Virginia Slims of Mission Viejo on her first trip to this country 14 months ago, has also gained ground in the Virginia Slims circuit standings that will determine the 16 players who will enter the championship event here.

Navratilova has moved up to fourth in the standings from fifth and has narrowed the margin between herself and point leader Margaret Court of Australia to a traction of a point.

Adding to her success, Navratilova has gathered a following because of her uninhibited courtside antics and happy disposition off the court.

Last October a fan in Los Angeles shouted an insult at the left-handed teenager, interrupting the match, and Navratilova amazed the crowd by fighting back her tears to win the point, game and match. She drew a standing ovation.

Tears rolled down her checks again two nights later as the Los Angeles fans stood and cheered the presentation of a cake to her on her 18th birthday.

Only the Virginia Slims tournaments in Houston, Dallas and Philadelphia remain before the start of the championships, which this year will be a round robin tournament presenting all of the top competitors each of the five days of play.

After eight of the 16 players are eliminated in the first round Apr. 1, the survivors will be divided into gold and green groups of four each. Each player will play each other player in her group, providing spectators with four outstanding matches each night. The finals will pit the winners of each group against each other on Apr. 5.

Tickets are on sale at the Sports Arena box office, all Ticketron, Mutual and Liberty outlets. Ticket information is available at (213) 741-2171.

Pole vault steals show at UCLA

LOS ANGELES — One of track and field's most spectacular events, the pole vault, figures to steal the show in today's triangular meet between San Jose State's Spartans, Long Beach State's 49ers and UCLA's host Bruins in Drake Stadium.

The action gets under way at 1:15 with the long jump. The pole vault competition begins at 1:30.

Topping an all-star entry list is the world's most improved vaulter, San Jose State's Dan Ripley, who in the past seven months has upped his personal best from 16-3½ to 18-1. The latter height makes Mr. Ripley the world amateur indoor record-holder.

But Ripley, believe it or not, will have to be at his best to beat three talented UCLA vaulters who have already cleared 17-5 (frosh Mike Tully), 17-1 (senior Ron Mooers) and 16-7 (frosh Tim Curran) this season. Tully's 17-5 is the country's highest collegiate vault of the season, to date.

And Long Beach State's world-class vaulter, Don Baird from Australia, also will be on hand if he can make plane connections out of Detroit, Mich., tonight after competing in the NCAA Indoor Championships. This British Commonwealth champion has already cleared 17-4 outdoors this season. His best is 17-9.

But UCLA coach Jim Bush is predicting a tight meet right down the line. "Each week we are facing stronger teams and San Jose State appears capable of ending our dual meet win streak at 28 straight," coach Bush adds.

Today's competition will include both dual and triangular meet scoring. In other words, the Bruins could extend their dual victory string to 30 in a row by beating both the Spartans and 49ers.

Last Saturday, the Bruins got in their meet with Arizona State even though there was rain. Some 1,000 fans braved the weather and saw some exciting competition, especially in the 880 with the Bruins scoring a surprising sweep to break open a tight meet which they went on to win, 81-64.

After Curtis Beck set a fast pace, UCLA half-mile record-holder Tony Veney nipped him at the tape to win in 1:50.3. Beck's 1:50.4 was his lifetime best. A strong third was sophomore Alvin Gilmore with his career best of 1:50.9.

Gilmore appears to have "arrived." In the opening two meets, he has already set two personal bests, 4:05.8 in the mile against Arizona and then his fast 880 last week.

Cal Poly tracksters face tough meet at San Diego

After the disappointment of having its scheduled practice meet with the University of Southern California rained out last Friday, Cal Poly's track and field squad will now prepare for another tough foe, San Diego State University.

The Bronco thinclads will go after the Aztecs in dual meet action today in San Diego with the first event scheduled for 1 p.m.

Today's meeting with San Diego State figures to be one of the toughest of the dual meet season for Cal Poly, as coach Fred Jones explains.

"At this point, due to the wet weather and the cancellations, we have lost our continuity as a team. We will have to get it back Saturday to be competitive with State.

"In order to beat San Diego, our guys will really have to come up with some outstanding efforts, particularly in the sprints."

Jones' concern over the sprints is caused chiefly by one man, the Aztecs' Harold Williams. Williams has recorded a 9.3 100 and 20.6 220, while the best Bronco mark so far this year in the 100 is a 9.7 by Harry Frierson and the top Poly clocking in the 220 is Mike Harris' 21.6.

Despite Williams, Cal Poly might rate a slight edge in the team scoring in the sprint events due to greater depth in personnel. State does have several very impressive runners in the 880, and figures to sweep that event unless Bronco George McFarland can better his 1975 best of 1:56.4.

Aztecs' Odie Huffman, Brian Donahue, Earl Robinson and Steve Wulf have all recorded 880 times of under 1:54.0 this year. Robinson is also an outstanding miler, with a 4:09.0 effort against UC Berkeley earlier this season to this credit.

San Diego's Quin Wheeler and Garry Greene should provide Broncos' Harris and Frierson stiff competition in the 120 high hurdles, and also figure to give Poly's Larry Joyner and Paul Nelson trouble in the 440 intermediates.

Neither school has outstanding depth in the field events, although based on comparative heights and distances Poly rates a slight edge. The triple jump will be a contest between Aztec Tom Bush (who recorded a 47'3" triple against Berkeley) and Broncs' Bobby Jones and Mike James. Poly's Mark Kipley and Joe Schieffer will be challenged by Stae's Ron Hill (who has a 6'6" best this year) in the high jump, while Kipley and Hubert Black will be trying to top Aztec James Collins (who has gone 15'6" this season) in the pole vault competition.

The Poly javelin-throwing trio of John Sedia, Art Zamberlin and Tim O'Connor figures to take that event, but State's Mark Stevens should top the shotputting competition, having recorded a toss of 52'4" already this year.

Perhaps the feature event of the meet will be the mile relay. San Diego is coming off a 3:13.7 upset win over USC in the Long Beach Relays University Division competition two weeks ago, while the improving Bronco mile relay team will be out to better the Poly school record.

Rowland cagers eye a marathon record

A total score "in the thousands" is expected Sunday night when seniors at Rowland High complete a 48-hour marathon basketball game at the school gymnasium in Rowland Heights.

The contest, which began as a lark to see if the current world's record for a marathon basketball game could be broken, may raise more than $700 for the athletic department.

Other students have pledged that much if the 10 boys who are going to play last the 48 hours. The current record, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, is 46 hours, 3 minutes, established by teams at Her Majesty's Training Prison in Australia.

The game began Friday afternoon at 4 p.m. and Sunday, 4 p.m., is the target hour.

The 10 boys, all varsity football or basketball players, will be under the supervision of head football coach Gary Rawls, who will be on hand for the duration of the marathon.

'Pack girls edge Upland

The Claremont High girls track team edged Upland, 47-44 Friday at Claremont.

Jenny Stary of Claremont and Linda Hightower of Upland were each quadruple winners.

Stary set a school record in the mile run (6:09.6) and swept the field events. She posted wins in the long jump, high jump and shotput.

Hightower won the 440-yard dash, the 80-yard hurdles, anchored the winning medley relay team and was on the winning 440 relay team.

The Wolfpack jayvees edged Upland although each team scored 45 points because Claremont won four events.

Claremont, 2-0 in the SAL, hosts Chaffey Tuesday. Upland (0-1) hosts Chaffey Thursday.

MSAC wins swim meet

Chris Varges and Steve Flores paced Mt. San Antonio College to its first conference swim meet win Friday.

Vargas won the 220-yard butterfly and placed second in the 500-yard freestyle. Flores won the 200-yard freestyle and was second in the 500-yard frestyle.

MSAC, 1-2, is at Cerritos Friday.

Citrus Belt hosts leading bowlers

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

"Nothing ever happens in the Citrus Belt!"

That probably is the complaint heard most often by bowlers in this area and the people who utter such remarks are very rarely challenged.

But now a challenge can be made since something indeed is going to happen bowling-wise in the Citrus Belt.

How would you like to have to travel only as far as San Bernardino for the opportunity to bowl with and watch such performers as Earl Anthony, Larry Laub, Barry Asher, Bobby Knipple, Jay Robinson, Ed Bourdase, Palmer Fallgren, Gary Mage, Paul Colwell and many other of the top names in professional bowling?

Well, it's all going to happen on the weekend of May 16-17-18 when the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram, in conjunction with the Citrus Bowler, will host a Professional Bowlers Association Regional Tournament.

While all of the above mentioned names may not appear in the tourney, they are among those eligible since the tournament is open to all PBA bowlers in the Western Region.

And there is a very good chance that all of the top bowlers will take part in the three day event at beautiful Del Rosa Bowl.

This regional will be the only one staged between the Firestone Tournament of Champions (the annual culmination of the winter tour) and the PBA Nationals at WonderBowl Downey (which signifies the beginning of the summer expedition).

So this will be the only tournament which the pros will be able to sharpen their games against stern competition.

The tournament also will be the first one by a national organization using the new RCA Rapid Score automatic scorers. And bowlers and spectators alike will find this to be the most efficient automatic scoring unit anywhere on the market today.

More information will be available in the weeks to come, but for now just remember the dates May 16-17-18 when you can bowl with and watch the finest PBA bowlers in the west as they compete in the Sun-Telegram — Citrus Bowler Regional PBA Tournament.

Next week we will offer details on the Pro-Am events and also tell you how you can participate in the tourney itself, bowling against the likes of Anthony, Laub, Asher, etc.

Local bowlers fared well in last Sunday's American Bowlers Association Tournament held at Century Bowl in Lynwood.

Montclair's Gordon Lindfors was high qualifier with a scratch 1081 five game total and finished third in the double elimination finals for $200. Chino's Dave Loveless was fifth for $225.

Just missing the 16-man finals by four pins was Jerry Schweiger of Upland who received $60. The next ABA event will be closeby at Eastland Lanes in West Covina on March 23.

Two weeks ago it was Frank Wilcox who blasted a 719 series in leading the quartet to a 2526 team series, an average of 210 per man. Last week Wilcox "slipped" to only 613 but Dave Poole established a season high set of 725 with games of 213, 277 and 235.

This time the team shot 2491 as Poole's series topped John Ostroski's previous high by one pin. Team No. 2 now leads by two games.

In the 940 Matchpoint at Garey Center on Friday nights, Round III has gotten underway with the Automatic Positioner team of Jack Davies, Jean Shearer, Ray Mann, Stan Schreier and Terry Malone grabbing the early lead.

'Hens visit Poets, Stags host Leos

Maybe the local SCIAC track teams will be able to get in some action today.

After two weeks of idleness because of the storms, the SCIAC spikers are anxious to get going again this afternoon when Pomona-Pitzer visits Whittier and Claremont-Mudd hosts La Verne in a pair of 1:15 p.m meets.

Pomona-Pitzer, which definitely ranks as the SCIAC's second best team behind powerful Occidental, should rate as a heavy favorite to beat the Poets.

Coach Pat Mulcahy's Sagehens opened their SCIAC competition by whipping Redlands, 85-59, two weeks ago.

"Actually, we wouldn't mind too much if our meet at Whittier would be postponed," Mulcahy said. "We have a lot of minor injuries and could use the rest."

Pomona doesn't have another meet scheduled until April 5 but Mulcahy does plan to take some of his top athletes to the Santa Barbara Relays next weeek.

Pomona's meet against Caltech, which was halted by rain last Saturday has been rescheduled for April 23.

Today's meet between La Verne and Claremont-Mudd was originally scheduled for La Verne but it has been moved to the Stags' track.

"Our track may look more like a swimming pool but we'll try to get the meet in," says Claremont coach Chris Parkson.

Bronc Boosters hold meeting on Monday

The second meeting of the Broncs Booster Club has been set for Monday at Cal Poly's Kellogg West.

The noon luncheon, to be officiated by Poly head football coach Andy Vinci, will be open to all Broncs members and those interested in joining the club.

Broncs memberships are $50 per member. Membership entitles the holder of a Broncs Booster card to free admission to all Cal Poly home games, including spring practices and the annual Spring Game on May 10. Every Broncs member will be mailed a monthly newsletter on the progress of the Cal Poly football program, and Vinci plans to hold weekly meetings of the Broncs Boosters beginning with the fall games.

The number of memberships in the club is limited so interested parties are urged to attend Monday's luncheon or call the Cal Poly football office at (714) 598-4635 for further information.

Many foods and delicacies on Saint Joseph's Table will be distributed to needy families and other organizations' by the local church. Further information is available by calling 528-6953.

A concert including Dubois' "Seven Last Words of Christ" and two choruses of Brahms' Requiem will be presented at 4 p.m.

Soloists will be soprano Georgia Warden, tenor Dean Fowler and baritone Donald Bowers. Blanchard will be at the organ. Ronfeldt will conduct.

Mr. Held will be the liturgist.

Choruses will be sung by the Chancel Choir of the host church and members of the Claremont Intercommunity Chorale.

Jungian seminars offered

A series of Jungian seminars, offered by the Guild for Psychological Studies, San Francisco, will be held today from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, Claremont.

The seminars began with an informal talk, "The Greek Gods and Healing," in the church education building, Friday evening.

Participants starting today will have a choice of three seminars.

"Courage for Healing," led by Miss Luella Sibbald, is available to persons new to Guild seminars, and is based on the thesis that courage to face psychological wounds is the first step toward healing.

"Helpful Heriesies" is the title of the second seminar, which will consider mysticism and alchemy as ways of understanding the psyche. Texts from numerous authors, including Thomas Aquinas and Meister Eckhart, will be used to illustrate the theme. Sheila Moan will lead the seminar.

"The Son of Man' Dialogue" will be led by Dr. Elizabeth Howes, and will be available only to persons having made an extensive study of New Testament literature. The seminar will involve an exploration of the evolution and action of the Son of Man archetype in the religous process.

Participants will bring a sack lunch today and may attend a social hour and buffet supper after the seminars at the home of a local committee member. Donation for the supper will be $2.

A tuition fee of $13 will be charged.

Model rites for children at Passover

Missionary program on television

The Rev. Cameron Wilson, representing World Literature Crusade, will host a five-hour World Missions Special Monday, starting at 7:30 p.m. on KTLA-TV, Channel 5.

The TV event is sponsored by area pastors and WLC, a 28-year old California-based interdenominational ministry, founded by the Rev. Jack McAlister, its director. The missionary organization is working in 210 countries of the world, supplying gospel literature for free distribution through 415 missionary organizations and denominational societies, noted a local spokesman.

The color telecast highlights include a blind girl in South East Asia and a "shoe ceremony" for gospel literature distributors who walked 4,000 miles.

Littls progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nongovernmental religious organizations accredited to the United Nations have told Congress the recent General Assembly meeting of the world organization was generally positive but "disappointingly little progress" was made in disarmament, human rights and the issue of terrorism.

Witchweed tricked

Scientists have discovered that witchweed can be tricked into premature germination without the presence of a host plant by injecting ethylene gas into the soil. The parasite emerges in the absence of a host such as corn and quickly dies.

ABC president: networks not East-oriented

NEW YORK (AP) — Elton Rule, president of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., says it is untrue that the networks are "dominated by the Eastern establishment and New York thinking."

In a speech following his acceptance of the Gold Medal of the International Radio and Television Society for "the betterment of broadcasting," the ABC head said, "New York is only a geographical location. Eastern thinking is only a compendium of thought from every corner of this country."

A native of California, Rule began his career with ABC on Los Angeles' KABC-TV. He cited his own West coast origins, then singled out among the guests at the dinner Tuesday Leonard Goldenson, ABC Inc. board chairman, originally from Scottsdale, Pa.; Julian Goodman, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co. (Glasgow, Ky.); Frank Stanton, former board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System (Muskegon, Mich.); Herb Schlosser, NBC president (Atlantic City, N.J.) and other non-New Yorkers.

"Like those proverbial seeds cast abroad, our thinking, which came from all parts of the land, goes out to all parts of the land," Rule said.

The young people have invited the Keenagers, the senior adults, to be their guests at a picnic in the local park immediately after the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

The color film "World of the Seance" by Campus Crusade and musician Elaine Grisso will be featured on the 6 p.m. Sunday program in the sanctuary.

Mrs. Grisso, organist for the church and staff musician for "The Amazing Story" radio broadcast, will sing selections from her album "Songs for the Valley of Shadows."

For several years, she was staff pianist for San Gabriel-Pomona Youth for Christ. While a student at Biola College, she sang in the Biola Chorale. She formerly sang in the Phil Kerr musicals at San Gabriel Civic Auditorium and is also noted for her singing and speaking banquet engagements.

MSAC 'Class in Sky' trip: South America

The "Classroom in the Sky" of Mt. San Antonio College will visit South America next August, Stewart Angle, director of the program, announced today.

Those who participate will fly over the Antarctic and will tour points of interest by bus and train.

Angle said the tour is limited to 173 student passengers and costs $1,550. Reservations are being accepted now with a deposit of $500.

Departure is Aug. 8 from Ontario International Airport. The class will return Aug. 17.

Students will visit sites in Peru, Chile, Argentina and Brazil. Three briefings will be held before the trip starts.

As on all previous trips, this year's "Classroom" flight will be manned by graduates of the college, except for the senior captains. All stewardesses, flight engineers, and co-pilots are MSAC grads.

"It's not quite as long in miles or time as our "Around the World in 14 Days" trip in '73," Angle said, "but we guarantee it will be as full of exciting, unique experiences as any prior trip."

Descriptive booklets, applications and other information may be obtained from Angle by calling the college, 595-2211.

Xerox grants employe sabbatical to do hospital work for 9 months

Margaret Jett, 2921 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, has been granted a nine-month leave from Xerox Corp. to serve as an aide to the director of recreational therapy at Casa Colina Hospital, Pomona.

She is among the 28 Xerox Corp. employes who have been given full-time, full-pay leaves ranging from three to 12 months from their regular jobs to pursue self-selected projects as part of the company's Social Service Leave program, now in its fourth year.

The program, launched in 1972, has made it possible for more than 100 Xerox people from the United States and Xerox affiliates in Europe to participate in community service projects of their choice. These range from counseling delinquent young people, recording for the blind, rehabilitating alcoholics and giving legal aid to the poor and aged.

Following their leaves, employes may return to Xerox in the same or equal jobs with at least the same pay, responsibility, status and opportunity for advancement. Participants were chosen by employe committees.

POOL
OWNERS:

A 40-week supply of liquid chlorine*

A 40-week supply of HTH*

Here's why you should be using hth
now that liquid
chlorine costs the same.

HTH is more convenient To chlorinate a stabilized 20,000 gallon pool for 40 weeks takes about 65 gallons of liquid chlorine. Or one 75 lb. drum of HTH.

HTH leaves you more fun time Liquid chlorine requires numerous trips to your pool supply dealer, lugging back empties, wasting time and travel costs. Buy one drum of HTH and spend your time swimming!

HTH is more trouble-free Liquid chlorine raises alkalinity rapidly. HTH has only a minor effect on pH.

SPECIAL TRADE-IN OFFER TO LIQUID BLEACH USERS Bring in a case of 4 empty liquid chlorine gallon containers. We'll give you a 5 lb. or 5½ lb. package of HTH (granular or tablets) at no additional cost! We're that sure you'll be back for more. Offer expires April 15, 1975

*Estimated for 20,000 gallon pool properly stabilized under normal summer weather conditions

Wind blows vulture to foreign climate

MOSCOW (UPI) — Hunters near Vladivostok have trapped a black vulture with a nine-foot wingspan and experts said they believe he was blown there from southern latitudes by a whirlwind, the Tass news agency said.

The bird, found weakened with hunger in a snow-covered clearing, was warmed and fed and presented to a zoo, Tass said.

Pomona Tile honors two for service

William B. Hacker of Pomona and Michael L. Helm of Leucadia were made members of Pomona Tile's President's Club during the company's regional sales meeting at Griswold's in Claremont.

The two men were presented certificates of recognition and gold lapel pins by the company president, John M. Thompson Jr. Criteria for being accepted in the President's Club are sales performance, promotional activities and service to customers.

A native Californian, Hacker started with Pomona Tile Manufacturing Co. in 1947 in the glaze department and became a sales representative in 1966.

Helm started as a warehouseman with Pomona Tile and became district manager at Baldwin Park in 1965. He became manager of the San Diego Sales Service in 1968.

Pomona Tile is the western division of American Olean, headquartered in Lansdale, Pa. It is a division of National Gypsum Co.

Wolf jumps over 7-foot zoo wall

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For years San Diego Zoo keepers regarded the seven-foot wall around the wolf enclosure as high enough. But now, a spokesman says, "we know it isn't."

A maned wolf jumped over it recently and roamed a wooded area for 10 minutes before being caught in a net.

99.9% reliability

Rechargeable heart pacemaker available

LOS ANGELES — (BW) — The rechargeable heart pacemaker has come through two years of clinical testing with 99.9 per cent reliability and is now available to the medical profession for general use.

The manufacturer of the pacemaker, Pacesetter Systems Inc., announced that it was extending the full warranty on its pacemaker and lead to 10 years, four times as long as conventional pacemakers.

Other pacemakers must be surgically replaced when the batteries lose their power. Pacesetter pacemakers can be recharged by the patients themselves in the privacy of their homes.

The first Pacesetter was surgically implanted over two years ago, following more than four years of laboratory and animal testing. This represents the most extensive evaluation undertaken by any pacemaker manufacturer before commercial release.

Now nearly 2,000 units have been implanted in patients ranging in age from infancy to 94 years. The units are recharged by means of a magnetic field through the skin. No sensation is felt by the patient.

The pacemaker provides a consistent and regulated electrical impulse to the patient's heart muscles, causing them to contract and beat normally when the patient's heart is not able to do son on its own. More than 200,000 pacemakers of all types are in use today in the world.

Facts and figures on the reliability of the Pacesetter pacemaker as well as actual clinical and patient experience, were provided Thursday at a news conference by Alfred E. Mann, president of Pacesetter Systems, which is located in Sylmar, and Dr. Jack W. Love, consulting thoracic surgeon for Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital, Research Physiologist, University of California at Santa Barbara.

Also, Dr. Ralph Lev, Associate Clinical Professor of Surgery, New Jersey Medical School, attending cardiovascular surgeon, Jersey City Medical Center, Jersey City, N.J., attending cardiovascular surgeon, John F. Kennedy Medical Center, Edison, N.J.; and Dr. Michael Criley, Chief, Division of Cardiology at Los Angeles County Harbor General Hospital.

Mann said the reliability record for the Pacesetter pacemaker was 99.9 per cent and that the design life of the unit was in excess of 30 years. "The reliability record sets a new standard for cardiac pacers," he said, "and our warranty is the result of the exceptional record achieved by our pacemakers."

Mann said that Pacesetter Systems is the only company whose warranty includes the leads, the wire that carries the electrical impulses from the pacemaker directly to the heart muscles.

Mann described the company's painstaking efforts to insure the reliability of the unit. Each component and pacemaker is checked and re-checked and subjected to rigorous unit-by-unit inspection. Many of the assembly, inspection and testing operations are carried out in "clean rooms," which are special restricted areas free from dust and foreign matter.

Love told how the rechargeable pacemaker was developed in association with Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, based on technology that resulted from the space program under the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and described his clinical experience with the unit. He implants the Pacesetter pacemaker in most of his patients who require heart pacers.

Lev, who now uses the Pacesetter rechargeable pacemaker in more than 92 per cent of his implants, told how he "follows" his patients, carefully monitoring how each is doing with the new pacemaker, including their acceptance of recharging.

Patients can either recharge for four hours once-a-month or one hour every week. Once charged, the pacemaker has a power supply that will last at least six to eight weeks.

"Being able to recharge the pacemaker is one of the most reassuring aspects of this type of unit," Lev said.

"Patients can see for themselves that their unit is being recharged." Lev said statistics of use and adaptability are kept on all patients who receive a pacesetter implant.

Criley, one of the original three physicians who clinically investigated the Pacesetter pacemaker, compared the characteristics and capabilities of the Pacesetter with conventional pacemakers.

The rechargeable pacemaker is manufactured exclusively by Pacesetter Systems Inc., an associate of G. D. Searle & Co., Chicago.

Plan blackout in protest of utility rates

BOWNSVILLE, Ore. (AP) — Lucy Thompson says she doesn't think utility companies would need the rate increases they're now seeking if they'd practice what they preach.

"There is a lot of waste and inefficiency in these companies that could be cut out instead of passing higher rates on to the consumer," she said.

So, Mrs. Thompson is asking residents of this small Willamette Valley community to shut off lights and gas for 24 hours starting at midnight on March 22.

The "Black Sunday" demonstration will be what she called a visible protest to rate increases sought by Pacific power & Light Co. and Northwest Natural Gas Co.

She said the idea originated at a city council meeting. Councilmen endorsed it and voted unanimously to oppose the rate increases.

Judge throws out cases by Navy officers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed five cases in which male Navy officers had charged the Navy with sex discrimination.

Following a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, Chief U.S. District Court Judge Edward Schwartz threw out the civil rights suits on Monday.

The officers were trying to prevent the Navy from discharging them after they had twice failed to reach the rank of lieutenant commander.

Navy regulations call for the discharge of male officers twice passed over for promotion. The rule is not applied to women officers.

The Supreme Court ruled in January against Lt. Robert C. Ballard, who also had charged the Navy with sex bias in trying to dismiss him from the service.

Schwartz' ruling could affect up to 242 officers whose discharges had been held up by pending court actions.

Q. "WHAT ARE BARNACLES?"

Anyone who goes to the seashore is likely to see barnacles.

A barnacle is a kind of salt water shellfish that attaches itself to objects under water.

A barnacle hatches from an egg as a tiny, free-swimming creature. But soon it fastens itself to any convenient object, such as the hull of a ship, piling, rock, or even a passing whale.

Once attached, a hard, limy shell grows around the barnacle.

The barnacle stays for the rest of its life in the place where it settles.

It eats by waving its feathery legs through an opening in the shell to pull tiny sea creatures and plants into its mouth.

The shell has a lid that can be closed in case of danger.

To sailors, the barnacle is a nuisance. Masses of them clinging to a ship's hull reduce the ship's speed. The only way to remove barnacles' shells is to put the ship in drydock and scrape its bottom.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Electronic payments

Will America become a 'cashless' society?

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cashless society, in which all transactions from buying groceries to paying the telephone bill are handled electronically, is possible within 10 years, according to a Federal Reserve bank officer.

Thomas G. Waage, senior vice president of the Fed's New York branch, todl a news conference this week unless a new system of exchange is developed the nation's banking sytem will "choke" under an avalanche of checks.

The checking account system has been enormously attractive and successful but at the same time has created serious paperwork problems with the volume of checks expected to exceed 34 billion this year, Waage said.

"Our problem," he said, "is to get something better."

Waage said more experimentation is needed to develop electronic methods of paying workers, paying bills and transferring funds to and from checking accounts and banks.

The Air Force recently launched in three regions a payroll system whereby the government records a worker's wages on magnetic computer tape which is cleared through the Federal Reserve System and ultimately deposits the wages in the worker's bank account. No paper changes hands.

A voluntary program, less than 40 per cent of Air Force personnel in the three test areas would agree to take their payment in this manner.

"A lot of people get psychic satisfaction out of taking a check," Waage said. For example, he said, "A lot of fellows like to take their check to a bar, have a drink and cash it there."

The Social Security Administration, which sends out 35 million checks a month, determined in a survey last month that 30 per cent of the recipients, many of them older persons with difficulty getting to banks, would accept direct payment to their banks.

The immediate impact of the direct payment systems would save the government a lot of money but would result in even more checking accounts and checks because it would create accounts for those who do not now have them, Waage said.

To reduce check volume, Waage proposed a system whereby personal bills would be paid directly by a bank to the creditor. All bills and computer programming would have to be standardized for "a uniform transfer." A national standard for all bills would have to be adopted so they contained "all the necessary information" and could be translated by either magnetic tape or optical scanning devices.

Under this system, an individual would take or send his bills to the bank, which would make direct payments from the individual's account to the creditor's bank account through electronic transfers of money between the banks. The Federal Reserve would act as an automated clearing house. Again, no paper would change hands.

This system, Waage said, has been used successfully in Europe. In the Netherlands, 90 per cent of all house payments and rentals are made this way, he said.

Such a system could be implemented in a year's time, Waage said, "if everybody would do it."

It would be a first step, Waage said, to a cashless society that could be reached in 10 years.

U.S. becoming a nation of centenarians?

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A 5-year-old girl watches with wide-eyed excitement as the world celebrates the dawn of the 21st century —and 100 years later remembers that moment as she sees her great-great grandchild help usher in the 22nd century.

There is nothing particularly unusual about this scenario, for the children of the last decade of this century and their descendants will, in all probability, belong to a race of centenarians.

Medical science has brought us to the edge of that achievement already, but those who are leading the research in aging are increasingly asking themselves what the sociological implications of extended life will be.

"The most important question in gerontology is what are the goals of our research," said Dr. Leonard Hayflick, professor of medical microbiology at Stanford University's School of Medicine and one of the nation's leading researchers in aging.

"If it is to extend human longevity, then one must, as a responsible scientist, worry about the social consequences. Is it desirable to have everyone live an additional 10 or 20 years, even if you could stretch the life expectancy in such a way that they would not be spending that additional time as an old person?

"The social consequences are enormous and unless we come to grips with those first, it is probably unwise to tamper with the biological clock."

The biological clock is the key to research into increasing life expectancy. But Hayflick was quick to point out in an interview that there is a difference between life expectancy and life span. The latter, controlled by the biological clock, appears to be relatively fixed.

"If you cured all of the diseases that you know about, longevity would not be affected significantly. Aging is a programmed series of events, just as your development as an infant through adolescence and adulthood are all programmed.

"As far as we know, there is a fixed median life span for all animals. Man, let's say, is about 90-100, something in that range. What we have been doing by resolving diseases is simply allowing more people to live to the maximum age. We're not increasing the median life span, which is a popular misconception."

Hayflick believes the oldest anyone could live would be about 125 to 130 years if all diseases were curable.

"Approached in the light of modern science, I think the possibility of tampering with the biological clock is a real one," he said, adding that a person born since 1950 is likely to see it come to pass during his lifetime.

But to make such progress, Hayflick said the nation will have to spend more than the $4 million now being allocated annually to the biology of aging.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4308 VALLEY BOULEVARD

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Road Commissioner of the County of Los Angeles in Room 150, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033, until 9:30 a.m. on April 1, 1975; and then will be publicly opened and read in Room 193 at the above address for the construction of cement concrete planter curb, installation of polyetylene film water barrier and irrigation system, landscaping work, plant maintenance and other incidental and appurtenant work estimated to cost less than $37,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans, Specifications, Notices and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are on file and open for inspection at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Compete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom the contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

The following certification MUST be written on the back of the Offer to Purchase (Form 9551) and signed by purchasers: "I certify that I am purchasing this property as a homeowner-occupant." FAILURE TO FOLLOW THESE INSTRUCTIONS WILL DISQUALIFY BID. Properties not sold to Homeowner-occupants will be relisted at a later date for sale to any buyer.

IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS: READ CAREFULLY

Deposit of $500.00 on all properties upon acceptance of offer. If this sale is cancelled or withdrawn by the purchaser, any refund of deposit will be at the sole discretion of HUD. However, if the sale is rejected by HUD, the deposit will be refunded. BIDS MUST BE SEALED AND THE DATE, TIME OF BID OPENING AND ADDRESS OF PROPERTY MUST BE PLACED ON THE ENVELOPE. BID FORM (9551) MUST SHOW ADDRESS BY HOUSE NUMBER, STREET, CITY AND ZIP CODE. HUD reserves the right to withdraw or reject any or all offers at its discretion prior to the close of escrow. All sales of "As Is" properties must close within 30 days from date of bid and cannot be conditioned upon future financing availability, including VA. Time is of the essence. No Discount points or origination fees will be paid by HUD on all cash sales. After purchase no one is to enter upon the property for purpose of repairs or rehabilitation unless escrow is closed an deed is recorded.

HUD does not warrant habitability of premises or compliance with local building codes. The contract of sale on the following homes will contain a statement to the express effect that the propery may not meet local or state building or housing codes; that HUD assumes no responsibility for compliance in connection with the sale. The appropriate local building department will be notified of the sale and the condition of the property. The contract of sale shall note any known deficiencies or code violations found to exist at the time of sale closing. All additions, charges and conditions noted on the contract of sale will be acknowledged by signature of the buyer(s).

HUD will assure that the requirements of the Lead Base Paint Act will be met prior to closing. Such action will be a contingency of the sale and may alter the appearance or physical condition of the property subsequent to this listing for sale.

High desert bursting with spring colors

It happened in Pomona

By Doc Peirsol

Early day conservationists

"City Trustee spare those trees!" Those were the stirring words being shouted by two well known Pomonans at a meeting of Pomona's Board of Trustees in November 1904. That, of course, was years before the term "ecological conservation" had come into common usage but the complaints of Cyrus Burdick and George Woy, residents of north Garey avenue, would have equaled in eolquence any of the impassioned pleas being made today by our modern conservationists and members of the Sierra Club.

Those two gentlemen were appearing before the City Trustees to loudly protest the proposed curbing and grading of Garey avenue from the railroad tracks to Alvarado street. To substantiate their protests they were pointing out in no uncertain language what disasterous effects such technological actions would have on the natural beauties with which that section of Garey avenue had been blessed for more years than mostPomonans could remember.

"Curbing and grading," said Woy, "will cause a general plowing up of Garey Avenue."

"What's more," added Burdick, "it could cause the hewing down of the shade trees along the avenue."

And what was more important, they wondered, cement curbs and an easy street grade or those masterpieces of God's handiwork, wide-spreading, green, leafy shady trees?

It was a good try — a dedicated effort for which those two pioneer Pomona conservatiolnists deserve undying praise. But alas for conservationists when so-called progress is at stake! — The next time you pass that way, try walking in the cooling shadows cast by shade trees on Garey Avenue between the railroad tracks and Alvarado street.

A major pawn offensive

By SHELBY LYMAN

Playing white means to move first, and especially first in the center of the board. Thus it is no surprise that in almost any opening, white gains a superior pawn presence in that sector.

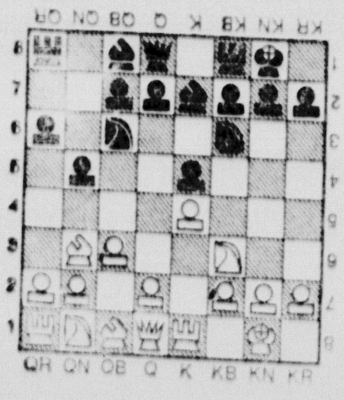
CHESS

The hypermodern openings (i.e., Alekhine's defense, the king's Indian, the Gruenfeld, etc., which are notable for the extravagant pawn buildups on one side, are only exaggerations of what otherwise happens in the more "normal" opening patterns, (i.e. the French Defense, Sicilian, Ruy Lopez, etc.).

The last, the "Ruy" is of special interest, because, in that most symmetrical of standard openings, white's "raison d'etre" is to construct a time-honored pawn advantage.

Diagram One shows us one of the most frequently occurring positions in chess. This position is the culmination of the first stage of white's strategy. He has just played 8. P-B3! and "nothing" (but exceptional moves) can stop the characteristic 9. or 10. P-Q4.

(Diagram 1)

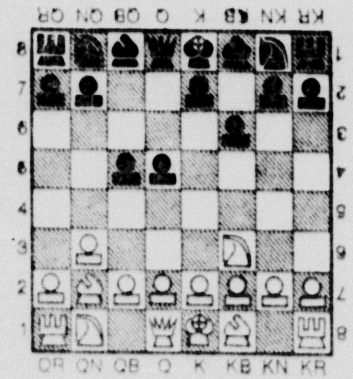


White will play 9. P-Q4!

White will then have gained the familiar "pawn-at-B3-Q4-and-K4" formation. True, black with 8 . . . P-Q4 will gain his own central phalanx. But it will be a lesser one. And it will be around white's positional pawn superiority that the latter will maneuver aggressively, submit black to the enduring "Spanish (Ruy Lopez) torture," and rack up the plus score which is the hallmark of that opening.

The tactical-strategic point of all this is that after white's innocent 8. P-B3, the central takeover cannot be "reasonably" stopped. Black's own queen's knight blocks his own queen bishop pawn, and his own central pawn play for the moment will be defensive.

(Diagram 2)



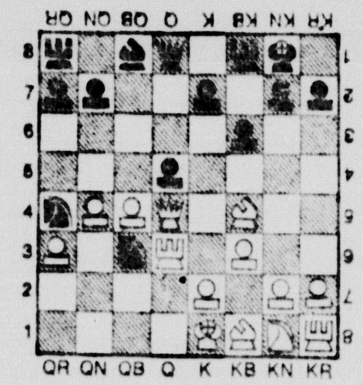
Fischer will play . . . P-K4!

It may surprise some of our readers that the "slender" P-B3 (though P-KB3) played an unexpected and decisive role in a dramatic moment of Bobby Fischer's ascendancy to the world championship.

With the score 2½-2½ in his challenger's match with Petrosian (the winner would play Spassky), Fischer seized the center with a surprising " . . . P-KB3" on the third move. (See Diagram two)

Now nothing can prevent a pawn ascendancy for black and an uphill labor for white. And after the moves 4. P-B4, P-Q5; 5. P-Q3, P-K4; the shape of the game was already obvious. (Notice that an attempted counter of 4. P-Q4?! would have been answered by the rollover . . . PxP and 5 . . . P-K4, anyway.)

(Diagram 3)



Ribli will play 14... P-K4!

Again, only recently, a most vicious attack was signaled by another . . P-KB3 in the game Quinteros-Ribli. On move thirteen, black (Ribli) played his . . . P-KB3!! (see Diagram Three), and white's designs on the black knights are immediately thwarted by the threatened counter pawn fork at K4.

After 14. B-Q2, P-K4!; 15. Q-R4 (sorrowful), P-Q5, the game was tipped decisively (see Diagram Four). Again "P-B3" and a cruel follow-up have given a position wings.

Try "P-B3" (K or Q). It can be very good, every once in a while.

(Diagram 4)

Coins: Colony seals in gold

by MORT REED

The Letcher Mint has just released the first in a new series of bicentennial commemorative medals in gold relief against a silver field. Sculptured by Carl Romanelli, each issue features the bust of an early American patriot sculptured in intricate detail.

The gold and silver in each medal is combined to form one permanent piece of metal so the gold is all within the area of the bust and the field is entirely silver.

This is not gold plating or "gold on silver" but an entirely new process resulting from the world's first production of coin and medals in contrasting colors of two precious metals. It is a bonding of 24 karat gold to a surface of .999 Vine silver.

The series will be issued at the rate of one per month at $30 each which is guaranteed regardless of how high the cost of precious medals may rise.

Only 7,800 sets will be struck and once the original edition has been completed the dies will be destroyed to insure rarity of the series and extend the collectors' value. Interested readers may write: The Letcher Mint, P.O. Box 107, Lancaster, Calif., 93534.

High desert in living color

The Joshua tree, a giant yucca is believed to have been named by Mormon pioneers

Story, photos by Joseph H. Firman
P-B staff writer

With the coming of spring, hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians are pointing their cars, trucks and campers eastward toward "the desert", where the winter rains have washed and refreshed the semi-arid canyons and valleys and thousands of long-somnolent desert plants have burst into bloom.

Because the current economic crunch has proscribed longer safaris, more and more people are turning to the colorful store-house of botanic and geologic treasures of the California desert. No better place to view the plant and animal life of the area can be found than Joshua Tree National Monument, an 870-square-mile park located little over 100 miles east of the valley area.

Here in the beautiful high desert country on the border between the Mojave and Colorado deserts, the federal government has set aside a broad preserve of oases, palm groves, mountain passes and sweeping valleys to keep the geologic features and the plant and animal life of the desert protected for today's tourists, campers, sightseers and nature lovers, and for future generations.

Joshua Tree is a magnet for Southern Californians, according to Ranger Don Colville. More than 650,000 visitors are logged in annually at the 40-year-old park operated by the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior. And the numbers increase each year, Colville says.

Gateway to the world of the desert is the Visitors Center at Twentynine Palms, where the monument headquarters offers museum exhibits, botanical displays and a nature trail through the historic Twentynine Palms Oasis. From there a 150-mile network of surfaced roads leads through the preserve to sites with such names as Indian Cove Campground, Salton View, Cholla Cactus Garden, Ocotillo Patch, Split Rock, Old Dale Junction and Hidden Valley.

One of the most spectacular botanical features of the southwestern desert is the Joshua tree, which reaches heights of 40 feet and bears cream-white blossoms in clusters eight to 14 inches across. It is believed that the Mormons named the giant yucca Joshua tree, or "praying plant" because of its upstretched "arms."

Amid the palms, cactus, sagebrush and picturesque Joshua trees lives a variety of wildlife that has adapted to survival in the desert — the side-blotched lizard, antelope ground squirrel, coyote, chuckwalla and the kangaroo rat, which has become so well adapted to the desert that it can go through its entire life without ever taking a drink of water. Its body manufactures water from its staple food — dry seeds.

Much of the wildlife of the desert is nocturnal and steers clear of the roads and trails. Even more elusive is the bighorn sheep, which keeps to itself in the rock escarpments of the desert. More than 250 species of birds have been seen in the monument, many of them migratory. Some 40 species have adapted to desert life and make their homes in the oases and valleys.

Not to be overlooked at Joshua Tree National Monument are the interesting geological features of the low mountains and broad valleys. Rocks of several geological eras abound, dominated by pinto gneiss, a metamorphosed rock, and quartz monzenite, a type of granite rock.

Evidence of a large number of campsites along an ancient river terrace in the Pinto Basin gives proof that the area was once inhabited by primitive man. Crudely fashioned stone weapons and other artifacts have been discovered along the old streambed. Later Serrano and Chemehuevi Indians lived in the region, and their pottery and other artifacts have been discovered. Still later came the pioneers — miners and cattlemen, the latter leaving their traces in "tanks," small dams amid the boulders, and giving names to various sites — White Tank, Squaw Tank, Ivanpah Tank.

Joshua Tree National Monument offers nine campgrounds with more than 450 sites. Supplies, water and firewood must be brought in. Books, pamphlets and free brochures on the monument are available at the Visitors Center at Twentynine Palms and at Cottonwood Spring on the south side of the park. Both centers are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

ON THE COVER

Southern California's deserts start their annual bloom in March and April, and a good place to observe it is at Joshua Tree National Monument, some 100 miles east of Pomona. This is the Twentynine Palms Oasis at the monument's Visitors Center at Twentynine Palms, starting place for exploration over the 150 miles of road through the 870-square-mile federal desert preserve. More than 650,000 people visit Joshua Tree each year.

Garey students make beautiful music

By STEVEN TRENHOLME
Garey Reporter

The Garey High music department is making itself heard. This is the first year that Garey has had a complete program including an orchestra and band along with vocal groups. They are giving concerts, entering musical competitions, and winning awards.

In the recent Chaffey College Jazz Festival, the dance band successfully represented Garey. Band director Richard Dennis said of the performance, "we started off a little nervous, but once the shock of performing in front of judges wore off we began to relax a little, and let the music speak for itself. By the time we reached our last two numbers, Brass Bugaloo and Jesus Christ Superstar, we were really hot." The judges evidently agreed for the band received a second place trophy.

The band has also been providing pre-game entertainment for home basketball games. And they will introduce Simon's Junior High to Garey through a concert in April.

This last Thursday, March 13, was "Music In Our Schools Day" nationwide. To celebrate, Garey musicmakers gave a concert Thursday morning. Music ranging from AM-FM pop to modern classical was heard from both the vocalists and the instrumentalists.

The combined women's and men's glee club sang selections from "Porgy And Bess." The A Cappella Singers performed three madrigals, and the Voyagers, who will be competing in a upcoming music festival hosted by Palos Verdes High School, serenaded the audience with "Bluesette," and "God Bless The Child." The four vocal groups, all directed by Ray Woods, then merged for the song "Freedom For The Stallion."

Along with classical music, for their part of the program the orchestra performed light hearted music from the film "Mary Poppins."

The concert band played "Symphonic Overture," "Arioso For Band," and "Bidden Overture."

The jazz-dance band then tuned up for three lively numbers, "Scorpio," "Soul Lady," and "Will It Go Around In Circles?"

This year a renaissance has begun in music at Garey. Students and teachers alike hope it can continue to thrive in coming years, now that it has begun.

At the Chaffey Jazz Festival there were over 50 bands in competition. The Bonita High School Dixieland Band also won a third place in their division.

Kevin Mason, Mark Goodwin, Loren McClung and Scott Magallanes were winners of outstanding soloist awards.

ASB elections for the 75-76 school year were held last week. Bruce Hines was elected ASB president, Bridget Bishop was elected vice president, the 75-76 secretary will be Diane Perez, ASB treasurer will be Terry Beltran, and chief justice will be Barbara Belknap.

On March 7, Bonita High School observed Sadie Hawkins Day. The entire affair was sponsored by the freshman class.

During an extended lunch period students were able to participate in various contests chosen by the freshman class. The contests were scheduled to be on the quad but were moved into the gym because of rain. The contests which students were able to participate in were a three-legged race, an obstacle course with balloons, a relay race with balloons, and an egg toss.

That night the freshman class sponsored • the Sadie Hawkins Dance. At the Dance a Sadie Hawkins King was crowned. The four princes were Carl Clifton, Richard Lober, Brad Frick and Russ Tyner. Mark Johns was crowned Sadie Hawkins King.

Protest and debate follow Polaris missile at Webb

By STEVE HUFFMAN
Webb Reporter

The display of a Polaris missile on Webb Day initiated a protest led by Webb student Jim Boce. The Polaris, a nuclear warhead carrying missile, was seen by many Webb community members as inappropriate for a day of fund raising and celebration at the school.

Because of this protest, Webb students watched movies, heard guest speakers, and held debates concerning the world's present nuclear arms situation.

The Webb community became concerned not so much with the decision of whether or not to have this symbol of death and destruction on campus, but with what we could do to diminish the threat of a nuclear holocaust in the world.

Rear Admiral Watkins spoke on the Navy's side of nuclear defense. The Rev. Albert Cohen spoke Sunday night, relating world population to wars and atomic weapons. "War Games," a film directed by Peter Watkins, grusomely portrayed what would happen if a one-metagon bomb was dropped on England. Third-degree burns, blindness, leukemia, shock, and rioting are a few of the effects of a nuclear explosion on a city's population.

While ''War Games'' shocked Webb's population with the knowledge that they could die a terrible death at any moment, "Only the Strong'' instilled in us a fear of the nuclear superiority of the Russians over the United States.

Russia has a faster and more modern air force than the United States, an anti-ballistic missile system which is virtually non existent in America, and an organized evacuation procedure for their major cities in case of a nuclear attack.

Russia also possesses several 25 meagon nuclear warheads which are 1,250 times as powerful as those which were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagaisaki.

The largest warheads in America are four metagons.

Thursday morning Chip Matthews of the American Friends Service Committee, and Captain Barnaby, an ROTC recruitment officer, debated the economic side of the defense issue. The week finished with a student and faculty presentation. One side was for increasing the national defense program, and one side argued for spending less on national defense.

The majority of the Webb community felt that the Polaris should be displayed on campus after the school's week of atomic awareness. The people in favor of having the Polaris on campus felt either that the missile would be educational, or that by seeing a real atomic warhead-carrying missile, people would realize that we really are living under the threat of nuclear attack.

No one at Webb decided on any clear-cut solution to the world problem of an overabundance of atomic weapons.

We did realize, however, that the problem of nuclear weapons limitation is a very serious one. If the public has ceased to be concerned with the total destruction of the earth,by nuclear weapons, at least it should remember that the defense budget takes millions of our tax dollars every year.

Spring Fling is planned at Ganesha

By SUE VAN CAMP
Ganesha Reporter

Spring Fling, Ganesha High School's Fine Arts week, will be taking place on March 17-21 as organized by Mel Whitehead, ASB commissioner, and student council. The theme for the week will be "It's a Small World."

During the entire week interested students will be decorating the quads with sidewalk drawings. On Tuesday a talent show is planned and Wednesday, a noon-concert.

The Rent-a-Giant Auction is perhaps one of the most unusual events of the week and will take place on Thursday. Each club on campus will have the opportunity to auction off three of its members to the highest bider of the student body for a day's use. Therold Adams, also an ASB commissioner, will be the auctioneer.

On Friday a Spring Fling carnival will be held in the central quad during the noonhour. Campus clubs will have booths set up representing different countries. The band Psalm 150 may also be performing during the carnival.

Choir festival set

Alta Loma High School A Cappella Choir will perform in the Chaffey District Choral Festival Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chaffey High School auditorium.

Only a cappella choirs in district schools will participate in the festival. They will be judged and graded on tone quality, blend and stage depertment, which means how they handle themselves and how they look.

They will be graded on 11 qualities.

The festival is being held to give a cappella choirs an opportunity to listen to other choirs, judge themselves and pick up techniques.

The Claremont High School Performing Arts Department premiered its production of ''The Unsinkable Molly Brown'' Friday and will give repeat performances tonight and Sunday and on March 20, 21, and 22.

Curtaintime at CHS Theater is 8:15 p.m. today, 2:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:15 p.m. for all remaining performances.

Tickets are $2.50 and $2 and must be picked up prior to performances.

Lead roles in the popular musical which opened in New York in 1960 are played by Kathy Kilsby and Arthur Cain.

Others in prominent roles are Jeff Kean, David Kellner, Peggy Comstock, Peggy Losh, and Todd Geller. There are 38 roles in the production, plus six performing groups.

Director is Don Fruechte. Martin Howard is production assistant. Karen Lillie is in charge of costume design. Kathleen Quinn is supervising lighting. Costuming is by Unique.

Julie Waldman is understudy to Miss Kilsby.

Humanity must regroup

By WILLISTON WIRT

ARK II by Dennis Pirages and Paul Ehrlich. Viking $8.95.

This book views the human condition with deep concern, contending that the "mini" crises of the 1970s may become the "maxi" crises of the 80s.

Explaining the book's title, they say, "Noah had ample warning and in spite of his crisis, the original prophet of gloom survived. Today we are threatened by massive problems brought on by our industrial revolution. We can survive, if our political, economic, and social conditions are redesigned. For if our present institutional ark cannot be made water-proof in time, industrial society will sink, dragging under not only skeptics but we, prophets of doom, also."

(Williston Wirt is on the staff of Pomona Public Library.)

Dennis Pirages, for the last three years a specialist in environmental problems, has teamed up with Paul Ehrlich of Stanford University, whose book 'Population Bomb' outlined the critical situation we face if the present birth rate continues.

This book outlines solutions rather than merely crying havoc. Pirages and Ehrlich portray in succinct terms the changes which must be undertaken.

"There is little evidence that mankind is intellectually, emotionally, or socially prepared to assume stewardship of the earth's eco-systems, or to guarantee the continuance of their essential functions through the planning and restraint that are needed to avoid serious mistakes. Very few people consider the welfare of their grandchildren when evaluating environmental problems!"

Yet this must be an essential part of human strategy, say the authors, even if it runs against the current of industrial society. When people are aroused, as they were in the case of the population explosion, procedures are undertaken willingly. Whether or not one approves of abortion, it is a concern for human survival. The authors are hopeful that their solutions dealing with pollution, pesticides, food increase, and recycling will be followed.

They are not omniscient. "We have tried to make the book useful. Our chief conclusion is that humanity must begin risking mistakes in order to move toward a more viable way of life. We know that the old system will not hold out much longer, and blind fear of it may cause us to bury our heads. To hesitate to make judgments and suggest solutions in fear of error is to abdicate responsibility in the face of certain crisis."

This book is a valuable treatise concerning a subject which involves every one of us — the viable future of mankind.

Antique wise

A quite valuable cabinet

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

Q. The enclosed photo is of an early nineteenth century French cabinet I own. It is handsomely hand-carved, in fine original condition, and is made of solid walnut. It stands 5½ feet high, is 38 inches wide and 20 inches deep. Directly under the doors is a drawer. This cabinet was originally owned by Clara Bow, and was used as a liquor cabinet. Would you please estimate the value of the piece? Mrs. H.G.

A. Your fanciful carved French cabinet is quite valuable. Prices usually start around the $3,000 figure, and go up.

Q. Six years ago my husband purchased the child's bed shown in the accompanying murky photo. The bed is constructed of oak, and as you can see the style is unusual. Its dimensions are: 33 inches wide, 42½ inches long and the headboard is 41 inches high. Could you possibly tell us how old this bed might be and of what value? We are very interested in learning all we can about it, as it has become a treasured piece of furniture in our home. C.T.

A. Your child's bed is typically Victorian, and dates around 1880. Its unusual form closely resembles children's beds made by Sugg and Beiersdorf of Chicago. Today, these sell for $125-$175.

During this period, several furniture companies produced beds for children that were essentially scaled-down versions of the Victorian adult beds. Most were made in mahogany, walnut, rosewood, chestnut, ash, maple and occasionally other woods. Children's furniture was produced in abundance in that period, and much of it still survives.

Q. I am hopeful you can shed some light on the value of a tea set I own. It is of Irish Belleek, and the pattern is "Tridacna." I have the tray, covered teapot, sugar & creamer, four cups and saucers, all in perfect condition, and bearing the black Belleek trademark. Mrs. J.T.D.

A. The value of your Belleek tea set is approximately $250.

Q. Over the weekend, I helped a neighbor sort items for an auction. I was fascinated by an old pewter chocolate mold we came across, in the form of a life-size running rabbit. Before leaving the house, she gave me the mold for helping. It had been in her family for many years, so it must be quite old. Can you give me some idea what a mold this size might possibly be worth? Mrs. E.S.

A. Between $35-$45.

(Dorothy Hammond welcomes questions from readers and those of general interest will be answered in the column as space permits. Because of the volume of mail received, she cannot provide personal answers to questions. Prices quoted concerning evaluations are determined by current retail quotations available to the writer and in no way constitute an appraisal. Pictures and drawings cannot be returned.)

Book takes advantage of strange fad

By KAREN MILLER

THE BERMUDA TRIANGLE by Charles Berlitz. Doubleday. $7.95.

Currently number one on the public's popularity poll of mysterious or unexplained phenomena is the so-called "Bermuda Triangle."

(Karen Miller is on the professional staff of the Pomona Public Library.)

Berlitz has capitalized on this popular fad and has given the public what it seems to want — a catalog of mysterious events and "unexplained" disappearances replete with suggestions of specimen-gathering creatures from space, and innuendo regarding powerful and advanced devices that are relics of an ancient Atlantean culture.

The Bermuda Triangle is a section of the western Atlantic roughly triangular in shape, extending from Bermuda to southern Florida, then west past Puerto Rico, then back to Bermuda. Berlitz catalogs in some detail the naval and air disappearances that have occurred in the area since the mid-19th Century.

There have been some 100 planes and ships lost with over 1,000 people unaccounted for. (These figures don't seem quite so disproportionate when one considers the time span or the ocean area involved: Berlitz includes all of the Sargasso sea in his list, not just the original triangle.)

Berlitz's descriptions of the events are hardly unbiased. He is writing for sensational effect and his bias is to have the reader believe in the very mysterious and other-worldly nature of the disappearances. He chooses to minimize or virtually ignore geologic, meteorologic, or other scientific explanations for the admittedly unusual events that have taken place there, especially in the last 25 years. He relies instead on myth and legend, and the folklore that inevitably grows up around any unexplained phenomenon.

The research and scholarship are abominable. The book is designed to appeal to those who want to believe in the mystery and supernatural explanations connected with the Bermuda Triangle.

Unifying force sought in man's development

By SAMUEL I. BELLMAN

THERE ARE GIANTS IN THE EARTH. By Michael Grumley. Doubleday. $6.95.

Samuel I. Bellman is professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.

This superb book (only 154 pages long, including notes and index) opens on a lyric note, a beautiful evocation of the classic 1933 movie "King Kong" with Fay Wray writhing emotionally and the superape swatting airplanes from the top of the Empire State Building.

"This is a book about bigness and power, and about the human-animal line. It concerns the present and it concerns the last 10 million years, and it has to do as well with the screams of all the Fay Wrays past and present . . . . It is a book about this Kong as the brother of us all."

The book is particularly timely now, after we have been prepared by all the "Chariots of the Gods" publicity, to consider the possibility that ancient man had all sorts of powers we thought were infinitely beyond his feeble sub-brain. And too, after we have been prepared by recent archeological discoveries of human remains that are more than 3 million years old.

Grumley begins his account with a description of the fairly recent (last 40 years or so) discoveries of outsize anthropoidal creatures placed in the genus Gigantopithecus and dated half a million years or more back in the past

And as he accumulates information on these giants and their movements in various parts of the world—the Himalayas, the Pacific Northwest, etc.—we begin to see a pattern running throughout history, folklore, and literature: the Giants in the earth, mentioned at the beginning of Genesis; the abominable snowman; the Titans; the werewolf.

Surely there must be something real, archeologically verifiable, behind all of these diversified accounts and beliefs.

Chapter Five, which presents some of the more familiar literacy and cultural examples of Grumley's giants, is particularly interesting. Still, as with the scoffers and repudiators of the "Chariots of the Gods" argument, Grumley's thesis may evoke a good deal of skepticism: "the present-day Sasquatch, Bigfoot, or Yeti is not a monster—he is only a giant, and much less a murderer than man himself these days. He has kept alive by keeping apart, and that, it would seem, is the only way he can continue to survive at all."

But many readers who come here to scoff may remain to discover their rigid beliefs loosening up more and more.

New issue honors patriots

Stamps

The U.S. Postal Service has announced design details of a set of four 1975 commemorative stamps honoring heroes of the American Revolution.

Stamps in the set, called Contributors to the Cause, will be issued March 25 in four separate cities. Subject of each stamp is identified by name and by a descriptive phrase in the design. Subjects and phrases are: 8 cent — Sybil Ludington — Youthful Heroine; 10 cent — Salem Poor — Gallant Soldier; 10 cent — Haym Salomon — Financial Hero and 18 cent — Peter Francisco — Fighter Extraordinary.

Each stamp also will bear a brief printed message on the reverse side under the adhesive giving information about the stamp subject. For example, the message on the back of the Peter Francisco stamp reads: "FIGHTER EXTRAORDINARY." Peter Francisco's strength and bravery made him a legend around campfires. He fought with distinction at Brandywine, Yorktown and Guilford Court House." The Sybil Ludington eight-cent value is designed for use on post cards, while the 18-cent Peter Francisco stamp is for international surface mail. All four stamps are horizontal and printed in panes of 50 with five plate numbers on each pane.

Requests for first day cancellations for the Contributors stamps, with proper remittance, should be postmarked no later than March 25 and be addressed as follows:

"Salem Poor Stamp" — 10 cent — Postmaster, Cabridge, MA 02139.

"Haym Salomon Stamp" — 10 cent — Postmaster, Chicago, Il. 60607.

"Peter Francisco Stamp" — 18 cent — Postmaster, Greensboro, NC 27420.

"Sybil Ludington Stamp" — Postmaster — Carmel, N.Y. 10512.

A remittance of 16 cents is required, the Postal Service will affix two of the 8-cent stamps in order to postmark covers with a date and to return them by first-class mail.

Giant ape suffocates at L.A. Zoo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The giant red ape Eli, who had the strength of 10 men, has died at the Los Angeles Zoo of suffocation during recovery from a knockout drug.

Eli, a male orangutan who was 15 years old, was administered the knockout drug Sunday so he could be moved, the zoo director reported Monday.

As the drug was wearing off he began rolling about, the director said, "and his head was pushed down on his chest. We couldn't tell that his air supply was cut off."

Eli and his mate, Sally and their two offspring recently had been moved into public view after disclosure that due to lack of funds they had been kept out of sight in a small cage for eight years.

The zoo hopes to build a $5 million primate village for all the apes within five years.

Depression photographs at Citrus

"American Exodus," the late Dorothea Lange's photographic record of human erosion resulting from the westward movement of thousands of jobless people in the 1930s, opens at the Citrus College art gallery March 15. It continues to April 13.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, and 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The starkly beautiful photography of Miss Lange chronicles for all time the miserable chapter of American economic history in the '30s. A selection of 35 photographs make up the exhibition, and give the viewer an insight into "how it was."

The early photographs were first published in 1939 by Miss Lange and her husband, Paul Taylor, who wrote the text. After her death in 1965, the book, "An American Exodus," was republished in 1969, and updated through the 1950s, termed "End of the Road: The City."

BARBARA COOK, former star of such musicals as "Oklahoma!" "Carousel" and "Music Man," will present a concert at the Ahmanson of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8 p.m. April 6. Miss Cook recently sang to a sold out Carnegie Hall in New York City.
